"Remember the days of old, consider the years of many generations: ask thy father, and he will shew thee; thy elders, and they will tell thee." (Deut. xxxii, 7.)

Doubtless there has come a time to most of us who have passed our fortieth birthday when we began to enquire: "Who were my ancestors, and whence came they?" As a general proposition we know that, being of New England stock, we are descendants of emigrants who came into the "Wilderness" (Jer. xxxi, 2) from the Isles of Britain, and from the countries of Northwestern Europe. But this did not satisfy; we desired more specific information. Who was the individual personally responsible for our being here?

As to the individual, I have answered: NICHOLAS MUNGER. As to the nationality, English; evolved through the "melting pot" from several of the Teutonic tribes who came from the far east of Europe, gradually moving westward. The historian has said that "The tribes which later constituted the German nation, lived along the shores of the Caspian Sea. The vanguard of the tribes which swept across the middle of Europe from Asia to the West, were the Celts. After them came the Teutonic tribes, and the hard crowded Celts were forced out upon the westernmost edge of Europe, across the channel to the British Isles, where they are represented to this day by the Welsh, the Irish, and the Highland Scots."

"All the tribes which successively invaded and permanently occupied Western Europe, were of the Teutonic race. They were many in number and name: Goths, Burgundians, Suevi, Alemanni, Vandals, Lombards, Franks, and Saxons—but they were all of the same great race, and had the same origin in the great migration from Asia."

So much from the historian, who has brought us within hailing distance of the land of Abraham, and within a few hours flight of the Garden of Eden.

When the desire to "Know" assailed me, I had the advantage of some, for I knew who my great-grandfather was. I had followed the scriptural injunction by asking my father, and he had shown me. At the same time I learned the family tradition; namely, that this grandfather once removed had served in the Continental Army, and was present at the surrender of Burgoyne in 1777, but no mention was made of his having been an aid on the staff of the commanding general on that historic occasion; an opportunity sadly neglected. It is, however, stated that he returned covered with glory—and dust—for he walked!

This was about the extent of my knowledge, but it has proved to be the seed which, though small, when planted in the soil of investigation, watered by persistent effort, and warmed by the sun of cordial and sympathetic assistance, has grown into a tree of greater proportions than was ever my thought or intention.

Doubtless I have made mistakes—perfection is hardly to be expected in a work of this kind. Much has to be taken for granted, and many statements are largely traditional. Traditions, as records, are unreliable, although they often make interesting reading. Admitting that I have made mistakes, I have also corrected erroneous statements which have hitherto been accepted as authority and of unquestioned reliability. In this I have been greatly assisted by valuable old papers, consisting of deeds, indentures, birth certificates, and a "Memorial" from the Connecticut Assembly, all of which are original papers, written by hands long since turned to dust.

These records were found in a small hair trunk, studded with brass nails, in the attic of the former residence of Morgan M. Munger at Warsaw, N. Y., and were loaned me by Mr. Porter T. B. Munger, his son, who herewith has my grateful thanks for his courtesy, and his confidence in me, who at the time was an entire stranger to him.

To compile a work of this kind, containing records to the 9th or 10th generation, requires the greater part of an adult lifetime, and the cordial and sustained coöperation of all who should be interested. Without such assistance efforts of the compiler fall far short of the desired consummation. The truth of this statement will be seen in the following pages, where appear incomplete records, which might have been made much more complete, had answers been received to courteous requests for information. A work of this kind is a "labor of love," with the affection largely on the losing side.

More than twenty years have been spent in this work; many old records have been examined, many miles traveled, sometimes afoot when other means failed, for the purpose of visiting some isolated farm where a "brother" lived, who had the "Family Bible," thus to get a few records to complete a family line, and to secure the name of some dear old aunt, who "knew all about the Mungers," and who, when later I visited her, told some interesting reminiscences of early days; how she and other children went to school and church barefoot, carrying their shoes in their hands until near school or church, would sit beside the road, brush the dust from their feet and put their shoes on, minus stockings. Also that the school house had no clock, but "the hourglass marked the time." With all this, by judicious questioning I would secure a name or date desired, completing a record long incomplete. I have also visited many old graveyards and copied inscriptions from headstones, thus obtaining names, date of birth, and date of death, not otherwise obtainable. A genealogist stops at nothing—he disturbs the dead, and irritates the living, in his quest for information.

As to who and what our ancestors were, consult the following pages. Their names are written on many a time-browned, fragile page; on moss-grown sandstone and discolored marble, and on rude and uncut stone in some unknown pioneer graveyard in the forest, where the silence is seldom disturbed except by the song of birds, the patter of the rain, the sighing of the wind, or the soft falling footsteps of the timid deer. I have held the key that gave the open sesame, and now present for your consideration the interesting matter thus obtained.

Among us not many great, not many mighty, but most belonging to the reliable "middle class," the strength of a nation. Some few, as one has said, have cast "considerable luster on the family name." Among these I class the sturdy pioneer, those who fought in the Colonial Wars, the Revolution, and in the War for the Union; aren't they worthy?

Fraternally,

J. B. MUNGER.

ABBREVIATIONS USED IN THESE PAGES.

Read these abbreviations carefully, and become familiar with them before consulting the records that follow.

Abt., about; ae., age or aged; app., appendix; b., born; d., died; d. y., died young; dau., daughter; res., residence, reside, resides, resided; C. W., Civil War; obit., obituary; twp., township; wid., widow or widower; pre., premature; s. b., still born; gen., generation; yr. or yrs., year or years; grad., graduate; n. r., no record; m., married; s., single; unm., unmarried. Names with x at right, are continued in following generation.

All Munger names are numbered by Arabic numerals at extreme left (1, 2, 3, etc.) and are continued in rotation to the end. Roman numerals at left of names indicate order of birth (i, ii, iii, iv, etc.). Following the record of Nicholas Munger, the book is divided into two parts: Part One, John, son of Nicholas Munger, and his descendants; Part Two, Samuel, son of Nicholas Munger, and his descendants. Part One is numbered from 2 into the thousands, and Part Two from 3 even to a greater number. The children of Munger daughters are not numbered except in order of birth, as after marriage they cease to be Mungers, and are carried no further.

To find a name in a succeeding generation, note the Arabic number at the extreme left of the name in the generation before you, and look for the corresponding number in next generation at head of family.

Some records have been received too late to properly classify. Such records have been put in their proper place, and numbered by using again the number last preceding, with the addition of a letter of the alphabet at the left. Thus: 109—

A 109.

B 109.

C 109.

By this method confusion was avoided, and the succeeding number retained its proper place.

Each part of the book has an index for Munger names, and for names other than Munger, in alphabetical order. To find a name by index, note number, generation, and final letter, at right of name. If "c" is final letter, it indicates that the name will be found among the children of number given as head of family. Example:

Munger.

"Charles. No. 599. 7th Gen. c." Turn to 7th Gen.; find 599 at head of family, where among the children of 599 will be found the name. If "h" is final letter, it indicates that the name wanted will be found among those at head of family; a wife or husband, or parents of same, names other than Munger. Example:

Roberts.

"Mary. No. 542. 6th Gen. h." Turn to 6th Gen.; find 542 at head of family, where will be found the desired name.

Remember "c" indicates children of number given; "h" indicates head of family, or wife or husband, or parents of same, under number given.

AS TO THE NAME.

"Monger; Anglo-Saxon Manegere. Originally a merchant of the highest class. Aelfric's Manegere is represented as trading in purple and silk; gold, wine, oil, &c. The Manegere (merchant) of Saxon times was a much more important personage than those who, in our day, bear the name. He was the prototype of the merchant princes of the nineteenth century; he was a dealer in many things which the ships-men brought from many lands." (From English Surnames.)

The Hanseatic League.

"The word 'hansa,' when we find it first in the Gothic Bible of Ulfila, signifies a military assemblage or troop. From this comes the general sense of union, and especially in the Middle Ages, of union for mercantile purposes.

"The Hansa, the league which ultimately overshadowed all rivals and usurped the name for itself, was no international creation, and we can fix no exact date for its origin. It arose gradually from two elements: the union of German merchants abroad and the union of German towns at home.

"The first impulse to mercantile union came from the dangers of travelling in the early Middle Ages. In those days mariners had neither chart or compass to guide their course, and were forced to creep timidly along the shore and to avoid as much as possible the open sea. The merchants had also to dread more positive dangers than those of storm and wreck. The coasts of northern Germany harbored numbers of rovers and pirates, who regarded the peaceful trader as their natural prey. To increase their power of resistance it was usual for merchants to undertake their voyages in more or less numerous companies. The union thus began on sea, was still further cemented on land. In those days law was personal, and not territorial. The foreign merchant had no share in the law of the land in which he sojourned; he brought with him his own law and administered it as best he could. The legal customs of northern Germany were substantially alike; and this similarity strengthened the bonds of union among the merchants, who found themselves for a time settled in a foreign land.

"The most important German mercantile settlements were founded in Wisby, the capital of Gothland; in London, Novgorod, Bergen and Bruges. Wisby was the central point of the Baltic trade; the other towns represented the four extremes of northern German commerce. Wisby differed from the other settlements in the fact that the Germans there were not merchants making a temporary visit, but were real settlers living side by side with the native population. Novgorod was a mere colony of the German settlement in Wisby, and Bergen was comparatively unimportant, and the German 'counter' in Bruges was not formed until some amount of union had been attained at home. But in the German colony in London, the majority of the members were merely passing traders who remained citizens of their native towns. It was therefore the London Hansa which exercised the greatest influence on the growth of the town league. In the reign of Edgar, we find the 'people of the Emperor' occupying a prominent position in London trade and joined in a lasting league.

"Waldemar III, king of Denmark (1340-1377), devoted the early part of his reign to recovery of lands lost to Denmark while it had been without a king and a prey to the wildest anarchy. To carry out this policy he had to spend large sums of money. To enrich himself he decided on the plunder of German commerce. In 1361 he sailed to Gothland and surprised and captured the town of Wisby. The news of this act reached the representatives of the Hansa as they were assembled at Griefswald. They at once resolved on war and in 1362 their fleet stormed and captured Copenhagen. But while they were besieging the strong fortress of Helsingborg, Waldemar attacked and destroyed their defenseless fleet. This defeat was followed by a truce which recognized the Danish possession of Gotland. In 1367 a Hanseatic assembly at Stralsund was informed that Waldemar had laid new duties on the fishing stations, and that he had robbed German merchants in the Sound and the Belts. Another war followed and the results were different. Waldemar did not await the arrival of the hostile fleet but fled in 1368 to Brandenburg, and Denmark fell entirely into the hands of the League. In 1370, Waldemar was compelled, as the price of his return to his throne, to sign the treaty of Stralsund. By this treaty the Hansa obtained for five years all fortresses on the coast of Schonen, and as compensation for their losses, were to receive for fifteen years, two-thirds of the Danish revenues. It was also stipulated that henceforth no king should ascend the throne of Denmark without the consent of the Hanse towns and that their privileges should be expressly confirmed at each coronation. The treaty of Stralsund marks the zenith of the power and prosperity of the Hanseatic League.

"After this war the League adopted a federal constitution. From 1361 can be dated the regular meetings of the general assemblies whose acts have been preserved in the archives of Lübeck. These assemblies met once a year in mid-summer, usually, but not exclusively, at Lübeck. They were attended by representatives of the various towns, but no one below the rank of councellor could act as representative. The League always endeavored to maintain its aristocratic character. The assemblies busied themselves with all the details of foreign policy as well as of internal management. The penalty of non-observance of their decrees was expulsion from the Verhansung (League). The chief offence which brought this punishment on a town, was the admission of democratic tendencies. The struggle between the artisans and the old burger families, which is so important a feature of European history in the 13th and 14th centuries, affected the Hanse towns. It was for admitting artisans to the council that Brunswick was expelled from the League in 1375, and was not re-admitted until 1380 when the old constitution was restored.

"Besides the central constitution of the Hansa, there are also traces of internal groupings. At Bruges the German merchants are divided according as they came from (1) the Wendish and Saxon towns—(2) Westphalia and Prussia, (3) Gothland, Livonia and Sweden. This division is supposed to refer to a real division of the League, each third being gathered around one of the three chief towns; Lübeck, Cologne, and Wisby." (From Encyclopædia Britannica.)

The Ancient City of Wisby.

A dead city of the Baltic Sea.

"The wonderful ruins at Wisby cause it to be regarded as the most remarkable monument of the Middle Ages in all Europe. The Island of Gotland on which Wisby is situated is in the Baltic, midway between Sweden and Russia, 130 miles southeast of Stockholm, and its commanding position has caused it to be termed 'The eye of the Baltic.'

"Wisby is the capital of Gotland and lies on the west coast at about its middle. It was a city of merchants, and during the 12, 13, and 14 centuries, attained great importance, and accumulated vast wealth. The trade of Northern Europe with the East passed through Wisby, which was a free port, and was trans-shipped thence to Russia, and went overland by caravan, and the goods of India, Persia and China, came down the great rivers of Russia, and were passed on through this town. Merchants settled here in large numbers; so numerous were the ships that came to this port, that a code of maritime laws was framed, known to the legal profession to this day as the 'Laws of Wisby.'

"It was an age of church building; the different guilds and nations built churches, and built them well—to last. At Wisby there arose three Convents, two houses of The Holy Ghost, and eighteen great churches. The town was surrounded by walls two and one-half miles in length and thirty feet high. Among the churches built at Wisby were the Church of St. Nicholas, The Holy Ghost, St. Clement, St. Olaf, St. Hans, St. Lawrence, Holy Trinity, St. Mary (the Cathedral), St. Catherine, St. George, the latter outside the wall, the church of the lepers.

"The subsequent decay of Wisby was due to the Danish invasion, the discovery of the cape of Good Hope, which opened a new route to the East, and the influence of the Reformation. Wisby is now an almost unknown city. It lies without the beaten route, and is seldom visited. Of its 18 churches, four are wholly lost; even their sites are no longer certain, but the walls of the town are still standing, one church is in use, and the ruins of nine others, some of them very extensive, are still visible." (Dr. H. Derby.)

"The object of this association (Hanseatic League) was . . . . commercial monopoly to be gained by acquiring the exclusive control of the carrying trade of the North of Europe. Its leaders wished to secure for it on a grand scale in the commercial affairs of Europe, the same exclusive privileges which the members of the guild or trade corporations possessed in the towns. We may form some idea of its power when we consider what it proposed to do, and what in the course of time it actually accomplished. It undertook to protect its members from oppression while engaged in carrying on their trade, to guarantee by armed force if necessary, the security of all commercial routes which the members might pass over, to enforce the observance, both by its own members and by the strangers with whom they traded, of wise commercial regulations, and to extend the commerce of the association as widely as possible, both by sea and by land. For these purposes the League raised armies, equipped vessels of war, made treaties and alliances with foreign powers, and in short, for nearly five centuries exercised all the functions of a regular government in carrying out its plans. All this time be it remembered, it was entirely independent of any government or country of Europe, and held them all in such subjection by virtue of its monopoly of the trade of their subjects that it became a power of the first magnitude in the settlement of the general European policy." (Mediæval Hist.: by C. J. Stillé, LL.D.)

From these German merchants (Mangeres) we have received the legacy of a name. Surnames seem to have originated with the Romans, who attempted to introduce them among the Northern tribes. "But with the overthrow of the Western Empire, the system was lost, and the Barbarians, who settled upon its ruins, brought back the simple appellative once more. AMMUS, the chief hero, was content with that title. ALARIC, the brave king of the Goths, is only so known."

"Surnames were derived from a man's occupation, or from the locality in which he dwelt." John was a smith of some sort; he was known as "John the smith," and eventually as John Smith. Peter lived on the moor; in distinction from some other Peter, he was designated as, "Pete o' the moor." Moore eventually became the family surname. Can the average reader interpret "Bill o' Jack's"? Simply that "Bill" was the son of "Jack." Had "Bill" been asked to give his lineage he would have given it thus, if at all: "Bill o' Jack's, o' Tom's, o' Pete's, o' Sam's." "Bill" had no "trimming."

"It is certain that the practice of making the second name of an individual stationary, and transmitting it to descendants, came gradually into common use during the 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th centuries, by a silent and unpremeditated movement over the whole of the more populated and civilized European societies. Nomenclature then began to assume a solid and lasting basis. It was the result of an insensibly growing necessity."

"As a general rule all names terminating in ER indicate some employment or profession, unquestionably derived from the Anglo-Saxon "wer" or

"were." a man. Miller, a mill-man. Monger or Mangere, a merchant-man." (Prof. M. A. Lower.)

The name Munger in its various spellings is found among English people, Germans and Dutch. It was at "Munger's drift" that the English General Buller met his first defeat at the hands of the Boers. The Swedes have the name Mungerson. A gentleman, who at the time of the settlement of the "Alabama Claims" was secretary to one of the United States commissioners, states that at the hotel in Geneva, Switzerland, when registering, the clerk, noticing the name said: "Your name is German, and should be written Münger." We learn from reliable authority that the characters over the letter U give it the sound of "e," or "ew," and that the "g" has the sound as of "g" in singer, a vocalist. The late John E. Munger of Chicago once stated that at Hot Springs, Ark., he met an educated German who was connected with the diplomatic service at Washington, who invariably addressed him as "Mr. Meng-er." Doubtless this is the correct pronunciation; at least it appears to be the nearest approach to the original "Mangere."

We have never attempted researches on the "other side," but have confined our labors to this country. We know the first arrival came from England; that he spelled his name MUNGER, as did his children and grandchildren, and following generations, and as it is yet spelled by his descendants in the territory where he first established himself in AMERICA as a "Freeman."

NICHOLAS MUNGER.

1. Of Nicholas Munger, the progenitor of most of the name in America, little is known. Some authorities state that he came from England with the Whitfield colony, being an apprentice to William Chittenden, one of that company, and whose name appears on the covenant drawn up and signed on shipboard during the voyage to America. The name of Nicholas Munger does not appear on the records of the voyage in any way as far as known. He is said to have been about sixteen years (?) of age at the time of the settlement of the Guilford colony.

By other authorities he is said to have been son-in-law (i. e. stepson) of Henry Goldham or Goldam, an early settler at New Haven and Guilford. "Henry Goldham, freed from training (military service) from weakness in 1645, had only Susanna, who married the 2d John Bishop. In his will of 9th of July, 1661, gives some land to Nicholas Munger, called son-in-law; probably son of his (Goldham's) wife Frances." (Savage: vol. ii, p. 269.)

In his will Goldham gives to Nicholas Munger "All my land in the Neck, paying myself, if demanded during my life-time, one barley corn by the year by way of acknowledgement, and after my death, if my wife shall survive and shall demand the same the sum of five bushels of whete by the year, but if she miss demanding in or at the very expiring of the year, then to be free from any payment that present year, and at the death of my fore said wife, to be to him fully and freely and to his heirs forever."

The land left Nicholas Munger was situated on the north bank of the Neck river and on the public road, and he settled thereon as early as 1651. Mr. George B. Munger of East River, Conn., says: "I live within a mile of where Nicholas built the first Munger house in America. Mr. Arthur D. Munger now lives in a house on the same site, although the property has not been continuously in the Munger name."

In addition to the land in the Neck, Nicholas Munger "bought from George Hiland the home lot containing an acre and a half bought by Hiland from Thomas Betts, lying in the Plaine fronting up to the street near ag't Mr. Whitfield's rearing back to the swamp, the lands of the sd Mr. Whitfield lying next on the South."

This latter land is situated in the village of Guilford, south of the common. An old plan of lots in the Stone House museum shows two other pieces owned by Nicholas in the vicinity of the common. The land bequeathed him by Goldham lay in the East Parish of Guilford, now the town of Madison.

"A terrior of land belonging to Nicholas Munger deceased this 30th day of March, Ano: 1670 as followeth: ———? his home lott at the Neck containing and allowed for 3 akers more or less fronting upon the highway going into the Neck on the North rearing back to the beach South bounded by the land of Steven Bishop west by the common land East from a parsell of upland lying in the Neck containing thirty-two acres more or less allowed for seaventene running crosse from the Neck river on the North to the Sea on the South past the land of Daniell Benton past the lands of Steven Bishop on the east a way being allowed crosse the said lotts as in all the rest of the lotts there." (Town Records.)

Nicholas Munger took the "Oath of Fidelity" and became a "Freeman" in 1652. The qualifications of a "Freeman" were that he should be of age, of sober and peaceable conversation, Orthodox in religion, and possessed of a ratable estate of at least £20.

In regard to William Chittenden, with whose family it has been said Nicholas Munger came to America; he (Chittenden) was one of a company of Pilgrims who sailed (?) from Cranbrook, County Kent, England, in May, 1639, and after about seven weeks arrived at the New Haven Colony, about the 10th of July.

When hardly out of sight of their native land, they gathered in the cabin of their vessel, and under the guidance of Elder Whitfield, drew up a compact agreeing to certain rules and conditions for the government of their colony, when they should arrive on the far distant shores of America.

* * * * * *

To this compact they made oath and signed their names. The name of Chittenden appears among the signers. This oath was called the "Oath of Fidelity" and was required of all settlers within the bounds of their settlement. The members of this colony were for the most part yeomen from the counties of Surrey and Kent, with some few from adjacent counties. It would appear that most of the settlers were from County Surrey, as the settlement was called Guilford, which is the name of the shire town of County Surrey, England, although the settlement was at first known by the Indian name of "Menunkatuck."

That Nicholas Munger came to this country with William Chittenden, is traditionary; that he was here in company with Henry Goldam and family of New Haven Colony, seems proven by documentary evidence. His step-father, Goldam, was one of the prominent men of Guilford Colony, though not one of the original proprietors. "Munger was one of the poorer planters," says the History of Guilford. "None of the settlers were rich, and none were poor, and few had servants." All seem to have been comfortably situated and self-supporting.

The date of the birth of Nicholas is not definitely known. At the time when he became a "Freeman" he was at least 21 years old, and on September 3, this same year (1652), he with John Rossiter, a son of a prominent citizen, and six young women were examined "Upon a common fame or report of some miscarryings by night meetings, unnecessary familiarity, and unfit company keeping," and the court adjudged all more or less guilty of the offences charged, which were probably nothing more than what are now called flirtations, and ordered them to make "A public acknowledgment of their evills." Without much doubt he was a young man when he committed this heinous (?) offense.

Nicholas Munger was born in England, probably in County Surrey, and about the year 1630 or '31. Hitherto the writer has said that his birth was about 1623, figuring from the unreliable statement that he came to Guilford with William Chittenden, in 1630, at the age of about 16 years. From later facts this position is untenable.

"NICHOLAS MUNGER from whom is supposed to have descended all of the name of MUNGER through the United States, is supposed to have been born about the year 1630 or '35. Little is known of his history except that he came to this country from England or more probably from Scotland, and report says that he came with a family of Chittenden, at the age of ten or twelve years, as an apprentice. It is supposed that he lived at the Frederick W. Scranton place at the 'Neck.' Nothing is known of (his) having but two sons: viz., JOHN and SAMUEL. He died Oct. 16, 1660."

WILL OF JOHN MUNGER.

John and Jonathan Munger, Executors of the Last Will & Testament of their father, John Munger, Sen'r, Late of Guilford, Dec'd, Exhibited Sd Will which being proved was approved in Court and ordered to be Recorded.

"Sept ye 2d, 1728. I John Munger Sen'r of Guilford, in the County of Newhaven, and Colony of Conn, in New England, being under Infirmities & weaknesses of Body but of Sound mind and memory Thanks be given unto God Therefor calling to mind the Mortality of my Body & knowing that it is appointed for all men once to Dye, Do make and ordain this my Last Will & Testament; that is to Say; Principally and first of all I Give & Recommend my Soul into the hands of God that gave it, and my Body I Recommend to the Earth to be Decently buried at the Discresion of my Executors, nothing Doubting but at the General Resurrection I shall receive the Same again by the Mighty power of God; and as Touching Such worldly Estate where-with it has pleased God to Bless me in this Life, I Give, Devise and Dispose of the Same in the following manner & form.—

"I Give and bequeath to Mary, my Dearly beloved wife the use and improvement of my House, Barn and orchard and all my Home Lot with the Appurtenances and also my piece of Plow Land in the Neck, and my piece of Salt Marsh near Sandy point, and half my personal Estate that shall Remain after my Just Debts & Necessary Charges are paid, During the Term of her Natural Life.

"I also Will and bequeath to my Sd Wife a Ten acre Right with the allowance thereof, in my fourth Division Lot called my Saw Mill Lot to be taken off at the South west Corner of Sd Lot and to be to her, her heirs & assigns forever. This being her Ten Acre Right which did Rise by her ——— ? in the fourth Division Grant and was taken up by me.

"I give & decree to my Son John Munger the movable Estate that I have before given and Delivered to him, and Farther my Will is that all my Children shall have Equal portions of my Estate (Except the movables given to John as above Mentioned) Touching what these have Received or may Receive in my Lifetime & for that End, I do Will & order that all my Estate both Real & personal shall be Duly appraised and Ten pounds shall be Paid to My Grand Daughter Jerusha Leete which with what her mother Rec'd in Her Lifetime shall be her full portion, and the Remainder of my Estate shall be so Divided between my Sons & Daughters (viz.) John

Ebenezer Jonathan Josiah Abigail & Rachel so as to make each of them to share Equal.

"Touching what they or any of them have Recd in my Lifetime which is to the value to them as I valued it at ye Time I gave it. And my will is yt my movable Estate be not sufficient as to my just Debts are paid out thereof with ye Charges of settling my Estate and my wife has Chosen her half which she shall have free Liberty to Choose—to make my two daughters portion equal with my Sons then my said Daughters shall have it made up to them in Lands or Money, by my Sons Equal proportions, that is to Say; If the sd half of my movable Estate (after the Debts of the Legacy to Jerusha Leete are paid) shall be Sufficient to make up my Daughters Abigail and Rachel Equal with my Sons, Then my Sons shall have all my Lands or in Case they shall make up and pay to my Sd Daughters (the value of what Land would fall to my Sd Daughters) in money then Sd four sons shall have all my Land—and all the Lands I have So Willed to my Children shall be to them and their heirs and assigns forever Respectavely and my Sons shall (have) Liberty for Twelve Months after my Deccase to pay my Sd Daughters for their share in ye Lands. And I Do hereby Constitute & appoint my Sons John Munger & Ebenezer Munger (Executors) of this my Will & Testament—And I Do hereby Revoke and Disannul all former Wills, Testaments, Endentures & bequests by me at any time before named or made—Ratifying & Confirming this and no other to be my Last Will and Testament. Jonathan Munger lived in the "East Parish of Guilford." Old records indicate that he lived at the "Neck." Later lived at "Mungertown," "in the orchard, south of uncle J's, barn." Moved to the "North Purchase" (Old Woodbury) about 1739. "A few families having settled on what was called the 'North Purchase,' a Congregational society bearing the name of 'Bethlem' was organized in Oct., 1739. Mar. 27, 1740, the Congregational church was organized: Jonathan Munger and his wife Aççapie, among the members. They were from the county of Fairfield."

"Jonathan Munger of Guilford, bought of Francis Niles for £500, the fifth lot in the fourth tier of lots in the 'North Purchase' so called, the 23 Nov. 1738." (From old deed.)

"Jonathan Munger, of Bethlem, Fairfield Co., Conn., bought of Judah Evarts Jr., of Guilford, for £78, half a right or lottment in the North Purchase, being the 23d, lot in the third teer, 3d, Mar. 1740." (From old deed.)

In 1748 Jonathan was made an Ensign in the Colonial Militia. "The Assembly do establish Mr Jonathan Munger to be Ensign of the 4th, company or train-band in the town of Woodbury, and order that he be commissioned accordingly." (Colonial Rec'ds of Conn.)

From the foregoing, it is presumed that Jonathan was a man of considerable distinction in his town, as the prefix "Mr." is used by the Assembly in appointing him Ensign in the militia. "The commonalty" were not allowed to use the prefix, but were called "Goodman" or "Neighbor."

After their removal to the "Purchase" the family seems to have fallen on evil days. Three of its members were stricken with the "Sickness," so called, a strange epidemic which swept over New England. The first victim of the plague was Lois Morse, wife of Jonathan Munger, Jr., who died Jan. 19, 1750, who was followed on Mar. 15, the same year, by Jonathan, Sr., who on July 5 was followed by his son Jonathan, who also died of the malady. (See No. 26, 4th Gen., Jonathan Munger.)

Jonathan Munger left no will. "At a court of Probate held in Woodbury Apr. 3, 1750, Agape Munger of Woodbury, relict of Jonathan Munger, late of Woodbury, and Mr. Hezekiah Hooker, appeared in court and informed the Judge of Probate that the late Jonathan Munger died intestate, and prayed that letters of administration be granted to her and Mr. Hezekiah Hooker. On the date above mentioned, letters of administration were granted to Agape Munger and Hezekiah Hooker."

"Mar. 23, 1750. On the date above the following judgment was recorded: Know all men by these presents, that Daniel Munger of Woodbury, in the county of Fairfield, for the consideration of ten shillings money of gold in hand received of my mother Agape Munger, do hereby for myself and my heirs, quit-claim all of my right with interest in the estate of my father Jonathan Munger."

"Know all men, that I, Agape Munger relict of Jonathan Munger, late of Woodbury, Fairfield county, for the consideration of ten shillings received to my full satisfaction of my son Daniel Munger of Woodbury, Fairfield County, do by that release and quit-claim all my right and title to seven acres of land which my husband owned, and also my right and title to a tract of land of 20 acres which he gave to my son Daniel in a deed bearing date of Sixth day of February, A. The Court appointed John Stoal and Jonathan Helay appraisers of the estate of Jonathan Munger, who on July 20, 1750, appeared before the Court and exhibited an inventory of Jonathan Munger, his estate, and made oath to the truth thereof. "We the appraisers under oath, to appraise the estate of Ensign Jonathan Munger, deceased, and is as followeth according to our best judgement."

3d Gen.

Here follows a long list of the various items, constituting the estate, both real and personal. From this inventory it would appear that Jonathan Munger was a wealthy man for his day and generation. Page after page appears in this document of such things as a wealthy man of the 18th century would be possessed. Altogether it is one of the most lengthy instruments among the probate records. It was some time before the appraisers had finished their work, and the distribution of the estate among the heirs had been accomplished. The Court allowed that the widow should have her third part of the inventory. Recorded and signed by:

ANTHONY STODDARD, Register.

The children of Jonathan mentioned in this document are: Daniel, Benjamin, Charles Joel, Lewis, Sarah Swift, Cloe, Joel, Elizabeth, Mary, John (the latter posthumous). These children, except the last three, are not given in the order of their birth.

Death record at Bethlehem, Conn., reads: "Eli Munger, Mar. 26, 1755." History of Fairhaven, Vt., in concluding an article concerning Dea. Daniel Munger of that place, says: "He had a brother Eli." Dea. Daniel of Fairhaven is identical with Daniel, son of Jonathan, of Woodbury. Accepting this statement as true concerning Eli, he was probably b. 1727, the year of death of Sarah, first wife of Jonathan. She may have d. at birth of Eli, or soon after. Because of some unusual circumstance connected with him, Dea. Daniel was wont to talk of his brother Eli. Pity the Vermont historian could not have given more than this single, though positive statement—"He had a brother Eli."

Various publications state that Agape (Aççapie) Lewis, widow of Ensign Jonathan Munger, d. Feb. 18, 1757. Original papers in possession of the writer indicate that this date is erroneous. The following indenture made by Daniel Munger, in favor of his step-mother, is adduced as proof.

"These may sartyfy that I, Daniel Munger by these presents lease or let the use or rent of one certain pese of land, that ye pece of said land Doth of right ly in me Sd Daniel Munger, unto my honoured mother Acapee Munger. Sd land did come by my Sister Elizabeth Munger late Deseast My said mother is to have sd land as long as she liveth without any interruption quietly from all persons as witness my hand in presents of us."

Dated at Woodbury, Mar. 15, A. D., 1764.

The following birth certificate in the handwriting of the Town Clerk is before the writer:

"Aqcapie Lewis Daughter of Ebenezer and Elizabeth Lewis born January 10, A. D., 1705.

As Appears in Record.

1748 Test: JAMES MILES Clerk."
1705

On the reverse side of this certificate is the following indorsement in the hand-writing of John Munger, youngest child of Jonathan and Aqcapie Munger.

"My Honnoured Mother died August ye 19 A D 1784 and in the 80 year of her Age"

(Signed) JOHN MUNGER.

Later, and by another hand, the 80 in this indorsement has been changed to read 79, but this is an error. She was 79 yrs., 7 mos., and 9 days old.

Moved to "Opening Hill," living a little south of where Chauncy Munger afterwards lived, and on the east side of the road. "The parish of Guilford, which is now the town of No. Madison, remained a wilderness for many years after the settlement of other portions of the old town. The first permanent settlement was made about 1725. Josiah Munger was among those who settled in the south part. These first settlers were soon followed by others, among whom was Caleb Munger." (Dea. B. Munger, 1829.)

NOTE.—Caleb Munger was b. 1722, and was at the above mentioned date about three years of age. After his marriage in 1747, moved to this district, then called No. Bristol. (See Caleb Munger, No. 22, 4th Gen.)

Reuben Munger was a farmer; moved from Guilford to Norfolk, Litchfield Co., Conn., probably about 1760. Birth of his first six children recorded in Guilford records. Others do not appear there. His residence in Norfolk was "one-half mile west from the meeting house."

Roys, in his History of Norfolk, published many years ago, in mentioning some old time snow storms, has this remarkable story concerning Reuben Munger:

"Mr. Reuben Munger, living where Solomon Curtis now lives, built a barn with a cow house at each end forming a large square yard open to the south. A heavy snow storm came on which with the help of the north-west wind, which took the reins after the snow ceased falling, filled this space and rising with a gradual ascent until it reached the ridge of the barn. A strong crust formed on the surface. Mr. Munger arose on a fine morning, went out to feed his cattle, and the strange idea came into his mind to feed his yearlings on the roof of his barn. He took an armful of hay and led several of them to the ridge where he fed them, from which elevation they descended in safety."

WILL OF SIMEON MUNGER.

"In the name of God, Amen: I, Simeon Munger, of Guilford, in the County of New Haven & State of Conn.—being in a comfortable State of bodily health, & of sound & disposing mind & memory through the mercy of God do make and ordain this my last Will & Testament in manner & form following. First & principally I resign my soul with humility into the hands of Almighty God my creator humbly hoping in a blessed immortality through the merits of my Redeemer Jesus Christ & my body I desire may be decently buried at the discretion of my Executor. As for such temporal estate as the Lord has been pleased to bless me with in this life I give devise & dispose thereof as follows. My will is that my just debts funeral charges and the charges of settling my estate be first paid from my movable & personal estate. I give & bequeath to my beloved wife Sarah the use & improvement of one third part of my lands & buildings during her natural life and also one third part of my movable estate to her her heirs & assigns forever. I give & bequeath to my beloved Son Josiah Munger my dwelling house with one acre of land lying west of said house & adjoining it, & half of my barn to him & his heirs forever—I give & bequeath to my beloved Son Wyllys Munger my Neck lot containing three acres be it more or less & the other half of my barn to him & his heirs forever. My will is that the remaining part of my estate not already disposed of by this will be divided into four equal parts or shares & that my three beloved Sons Simeon Munger Josiah Munger & Wyllys Munger have each one part or share to them & their heirs forever. I give & bequeath to my two beloved daughters Mary Hoit wife of Samuel Hoit & Mabel Grave wife of Timothy Grave the other share or part divided in equal proportions between them to them & their heirs forever. My will further is that my movable estate be set to my two daughters but if not movables sufficient to make their parts or shares that the residue be made up in lands. Lastly I do hereby constitute my said Son Josiah Munger executor of this my last will & testament & do hereby revoke all other wills by me formerly made & declare this only to be my last will & testament In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand & seal this 7th, day of July A. D. 1810."

(From Guilford Probate Records, Vol. 17, p. 556.)

The return of the inventory of the above estate as made by the appraisers bears date of Apr. 7, 1815. Simeon's "Beloved wife Sarah" died Dec. 15, 1815: so it appears she did not long enjoy her thirds of the estate. A very complete inventory and distribution of this estate is found in vol. 19, pp. 103, 104 and 137. Among the articles mentioned are "Knee buckles, shoe buckles, tobacco box, silk stockings, white linen stockings, buff breeches &c." The total value of real and personal estate as stated by appraisers was $4,284.55, but later it is remembered that there were "debts and charges" amounting to $30.00, to be deducted. From this showing, Simeon must have been a very well-to-do man for his day and generation.

Daniel Munger moved from the East Parish of Guilford to the "North Purchase," living here until about 1764, when he moved to Litchfield. "In the summer of 1783, moved to Fairhaven, Vt., settling on what is now known in that town as the 'Munger road.' He was a deacon in the Congregational church, and had the reputation of being 'very rigidly religious.' In 1791 superintended the building of a meeting house, which was afterwards

John Munger passed most of his active life as a farmer in Roxbury, Conn. Moved from Conn. to western New York in 1826. In an old day book, once his property, I find the following entry: "Oct. 5. A. D. 1826. This day I left Roxbury to go to the Hollin Purchis, and I got there on Sabbath day the 15 day of October and I was 11 days on the road and I found all my friends well."

His conveyance was a wagon drawn by two horses; was 77 years of age when he made this journey. Lived but four years after his arrival. Buried in the grave yard on the hill south of the village of Warsaw, N. Y. I have visited his grave.

In the old book above mentioned are other entries of interest as follows: "Mar. 24, A. D. 1801. this day my brother Lewis died aged 72 years oald." "Oct. 11, A. D. 1824. this day my sister Chloe Kilborn died aged 95 years oald."

5th Gen.

Timothy Munger had a residence in the East Parish of Guilford during the War of the Revolution. Some years after the close of the war he removed to Claremont, N. H., with his entire family, excepting his son Josiah, who remained in Guilford. Elias, son of Caleb Munger, removed to Vermont about this time, possibly going in company with Timothy and his family. Later in life, he is said to have moved to New Durham, N. Y. Dr. Talcott says Timothy married Rebecca Evarts, Aug. 28, 1765. This appears to be an error, as later records at Claremont show that his wife Mabel was alive at this date, and also that she did not die until fifty years after. Headstone at her grave in the cemetery at Claremont reads: "Mabel Stevens, wife of Capt. Timothy Munger, died June 14, 1815, aged 76."

Timothy Munger served in the French and Indian War: "Member of 1st Regt., 5th company, Capt. Andrew Ward of Guilford; enl. May 30; disc. Dec. 13, 1758."

Also, "Timothy Munger member 2d Regt., 6th company, Capt. Andrew Ward, Jr., enlisted (?) Guilford, 27 April, 1759." The next year enlisted in another company in the same regiment, with the rank of Corporal, as shown by record. "Timothy Munger, Corp'l 2d Regt., 5th company, Capt. Scranton; enl. Apr. 28; disc. Aug. 25, 1760." Immediately following his discharge, "Enlisted in the same Regt. and company, as Serg't, Aug. 26; disc. Nov. 22, 1760."

Under date of 1771, the Connecticut Assembly "Do establish Timothy Monger to be Ensign in the 14th company or train-band of the seventh reg't in this Colony."

In June, 1776, this body established "Timothy Munger, to be Lieutenant of the 14th company or train-band of the 7th regt. of the Conn. Colony." "Capt. Timothy Munger Inlisted 1779." Elias Munger, in his personal account of services in the Revolution, says: "1778 I was called in the militia to march under the command of Capt. Timothy Munger." (See Elias Munger, No. 53, 5th Gen.)

NOTE.—Capt. Timothy Munger is credited with having had three wives. Genealogical Register of Jan., 1900, p. 49, reads: "Capt. Timothy Munger m. (1st) Mabel Stevens; (2d) Rebecca Evarts; (3d) Lorain Murray." That he m. Mabel Stevens there is no doubt; that he m. Rebecca Evarts there seems to be more than a doubt; and the same may be said of Lorain Murray as she was wife of his son, Timothy Munger, Jr. (See Timothy Munger, No. 106, 5th Gen.)

Elias Munger was a farmer. "Elias and his wife Elizabeth were members of the choir of the Congregational church at W. Rutland, Vt., for many years." Was a Revolutionary pensioner. "In active service, and as a 'Minute Man,' subject to call, he served throughout the revolution." The following, which was doubtless the basis of an application for a pension, was loaned the writer, by the late Lyman P. Munger, Esq., of Hannibal, Mo.:

Nathaniel Munger was a farmer; moved to Middlebury, Vt., in 1787. He was accompanied by his son-in-law Nathan Case, from Norfolk. They began a settlement on home lot No. 43, in the 1st hundred acre division, in 1787, and both men had a house on this lot. A few years later, Case moved to No. 12 home lot, where Dudley Munger, a younger brother of Nathaniel, had begun a clearing. Nathaniel occupied and improved the place where he settled until his death in 1830.

Lived at "Stony Creek" (Branford), Conn., until about 1781, when he removed with his family to Norfolk, Conn., living "on the line of the old Green Woods turnpike, a short distance from Timothy Gaylord's tavern."

During the War of 1812, removed with a son to New York State, where his wife Abigail died; subsequently removing to Trumbull Co., O., where he died. He served in the Revolution.

In 1782, bought fifty acres of land of Ebenezer Frisbie, in Fairhaven, Vt., to which place he removed. In 1788, moved to Middlebury, Vt., later disposing of his farm in Fairhaven to Dr. Simeon Smith of that place. Settled on "Home Lot, No. 40," in the 1st hundred acre division. Acquired other property in this division, and in other places in the vicinity, and became one of the largest land-holders in the early history of the town.

Reuben and his wife Anna were active in church affairs, being prominent in organizing the first Congregational church established in New Haven, Vt. He had no children, and after his death his property was "distributed" among his brothers and sisters: Jonathan (of Ohio); Elizur, Elizabeth (of Norfolk); Edmund (of Ohio); Naomi, Seymour (of Pompey, N. Y.); Hadley and Nathaniel (of Middlebury); and the heirs of Abigail (Maltbie).

To his wife Mary he gave the "Fuller farm in Bristol," (Vt.) and "Two pews in the Congregational church—No. 27, on the ground floor; and No. 19, in the gallery—value $100.00." The "Heirs of Abigail (Maltbie)," as named in the document from which the above was copied, at New Haven, Vt., are Simeon, Benjamin, Jacob, Elaen, Harrison, Ammi, Daniel, Jesse.

Reuben Munger died at his home on "Munger Street," Middlebury, and is buried beside his wife Anna in the old cemetery on Case Street.

Jonathan Munger moved from Norfolk, Conn., to Middlebury, Vt., about 1788, occupying lot 41 in the 1st hundred acre division, south of his brother Reuben. Here he lived until about 1797, when in company with his brother Edmund, and a nephew, Benjamin Maltbie, and perhaps other relatives, he removed to Marietta, Ohio. In the spring of 1798, moved to Belpre (not far) and raised a crop of corn. In the spring of 1799, they came down the Ohio to Columbia on a flat-boat, bringing some hogs, some corn, two oxen and a horse. When they landed at Columbia, at the mouth of the Little Miami, all the hogs, except one sow and pigs, became frightened and jumped into the river, and swam across, and disappeared in the forest of Kentucky. From this point the remainder of the journey was by land up the valley of the Miami river. Located in Washington Twp., Montgomery Co., where they arrived early in May. Cleared land; built a log house, and put in crops which, in the fall, produced an abundant harvest. Jonathan located near his brother Edmund, and with him organized the first church society, and built the Washington church, which is still in a good state of preservation (1897). Prior to the building of this church, meetings were held in a log school house, which was near Jonathan's, whose home was frequently, and nearly always, the place of entertainment of the preachers.

Jonathan Munger served as teamster and enlisted man, in the War of the Revolution. "Enlisted July 21, 1775, in 7th regt. of Conn., 7th company; disc'd Dec. 2, 1775. Stationed at Long Island Sound. Sept. 14, 1775, on Washington's requisition, was ordered to Boston and assigned to Gen'l Sullivan's brigade and served until Dec. 1775." He was in Boston as a soldier on his twentieth birthday. "This regt. was re-organized under Col. Charles Weber, in 1776." "Jonathan Munger, corp'l; 11th Reg't Militia, Capt. Green's Co., at N. Y. in 1776, on march to West Chester." He was a pensioner. Several other children died in infancy or early childhood. Naomi died of quick consumption, at the age of 27, just previous to the day appointed for her wedding.

5th Gen.

Elizur Munger was a farmer. Moved to Middlebury, Vt., probably in 1789, or later, where several of his brothers had preceded him, but remained only about a year, when he returned to the homestead at Norfolk, which was occupied by his father, Reuben, who died in 1808. He continued to live here with his family and unmarried sister Elizabeth, until 1828, when he died.

Served as teamster in the Revolution when in his 'teens. Member of the Conn. Assembly in 1811, '13, '17 and '21. Is said once to have owned a slave.

"A minister of Canaan, of the name Thompson, owned slaves named Jupiter and Fanny Mars, who had two sons. Believing their master was about to take them south and sell them, they ran away and came to Norfolk, where they were concealed for a time. The matter was finally adjusted by Thompson selling the boys to citizens of Norfolk. Mr. Munger bought James, son of Jupiter and Fanny, then (1798) 8 years of age, who lived with him until of age, when he was given his freedom. Remained in Norfolk, and became a respected and valued citizen, and a deacon in the church." (Roys, in part.)

Edmund Munger moved from Norfolk, Conn., to Middlebury, Vt., about 1789, occupying "home lot No. 44." in the first hundred acre division, being lot next south of his brother Nathaniel, who had preceded him to this town. In 1797, in company with his brother Jonathan, removed to Marietta, Ohio, passing the winter in the block-house there, because of threatened depredations by Indians. In the spring of 1798, moved to Belpre, just south of Marietta, where they raised a crop of corn that season. The following spring came down the Ohio on a flat-boat to Columbia, and landed at the mouth of the Little Miami. After many vicissitudes reached Washington Twp., Columbia Co., where he settled, having purchased a section (640 acres) of land in that township. Lived in wagon bed while a log house was being built, experiencing many hardships and privations incident to pioneer life. "Arrived here May 9, 1799; cleared off the spice bushes, girded the trees on nine acres of ground, planted corn, and in the fall, had a smart crop for his dilligence and care."

"He was a blacksmith, scythemaker, and farmer. Of robust build, social disposition, and fond of music. Active in forming Washington Library; in church and school affairs. A man for the times, he had the respect of the community in a large degree." Member of the Ohio Legislature in 1808; county commissioner, 1805 to 1808. Township clerk, 1809-1826. Held commission as Brigadier-General in War of 1812. "At Dayton gathered together, organized and made ready for service a large contingent of the army of which Gen'l Hull took command, and so soon surrendered at Detroit. Munger's men did not like to march away under Hull: they wanted Munger to command them. They had seen what stuff he was made of: when he could find no one to shoe certain oxen that were to haul supplies, he sent to his farm for needed tools and his leather apron, and shod the oxen himself." (C. Butterworth.)

Gen.

"He was given command of the 2d Brigade of the 1st Division of the Ohio Militia, in the campaign against the Indians and the British forces. With the Dayton troop of horse, he was ordered from camp at Holzs Creek in ... scout to the front beyond Greenville, May 10, 1812. He returned with the information that the friendly Indians were advising the whites to move into the settlements, and that the Prophet with a large body of Indians was in camp 70 miles from Greenville, expecting to move in six weeks. After the departure of the army from camp Meigs on Mad river, Gen'l Munger marched his militia command up from Holzs Creek, and occupied the camp. As commander at this post his duty was to guard the public stores here and keep the roads open as far as Piqua and Urbana."

"News came of the surrender of Hull at Detroit, leaving all the northwest at the mercy of the British and Indians. The following order placed the organization of troops and the responsibility of the defense on Gen'l Munger who was then in command of the 5th Brigade of the 1st Division of the Ohio Militia:

"'Gen'l Munger:

Sir: You will take all immediate measures for the defense of the frontier within your command. You will cause block-houses to be erected at suitable places, advise the inhabitants to associate in such way as to accommodate families. The astonishing fate of Gen'l Hull's army has exposed the frontier to barbarities. I have written by express to the Secretary of War on the subject of defense. I hope soon to see the Kentucky army here, when a regular system of operations will be adopted. In the meantime you will direct and advise the most judicious course.

Your obd't serv't,

ROBERT J. MEIGS.

Governor of Ohio.' "

"Gen'l Munger promptly marched with his brigade to Piqua and directed the removal of the public stores at that place to Dayton, and ordered Capt. Steel's company advanced to St. Marys, where they built a block-house for the defense of the town. The Maumee country was over-run by roving bands of Indians. Indians also threatened an attack on Ft. Wayne, and Gen'l Munger ordered Maj. Adams to march to the relief of that post. In the meantime Gov. Meigs and Gen'l William Henry Harrison, with Col. Richard M. Johnson of Kentucky, arrived at Piqua with the Kentucky troops, and the command of the troops was turned over to Gen'l Harrison. The British and Indians were eventually driven into Canada, and at the Thames river were forced to make a stand against the pursuing Americans. The 'Battle of the Thames' followed on Oct. 5, 1813, the British and Indians being driven from the field in great confusion. Tecumseh, the Indian chief, was killed, and the British Gen'l. Proctor, barely escaped capture. This ended the war, and practically all that had been lost by Hull's surrender at Detroit had been regained." (Beer's History, in part.)

5th Gen.

After the close of the war, returned to his farm. Jonathan Munger, his brother, occupied land near by; Seth Kellogg, father of Eunice, wife of Gen. Edmund Munger, settled here with his family about 1802. Also the Maltbies, Tibbals, and other relatives from New England, and the country road on which they lived, and which was laid out through land of Edmund Munger, was called "Yankee Street," and is yet so called.

"Grand-father Edmund was fond of young people, and his stories of the East and West were ever the delight of us boys. He told of the long journey from the East; of the settlement in Ohio, when that State was largely a wilderness. Of eating under the trees and sleeping in the wagon-bed while a log house was being built; of the opening up of the farm on 'Yankee Street' and the clearing off of the forests, where bears, and wolves, and deer, and other game abounded. He told of Tecumseh and his braves; of the 'Prophet' and incidents of the War of 1812. How the wilderness gave place to fertile fields, and the Red man to the White." (F. M.)

Simeon Munger was a goldsmith of Redding, Conn. Was a prominent man of the town. Previous to the outbreak of hostilities in the Revolution, was one of many Loyalists of Redding who protested against the attitude of the patriots toward the crown. Though favorable to the king, his sentiments were not actively displayed during the Revolution. His name appears as "Capt." Simeon Munger, in a list of Revolutionary soldiers of Redding. After the close of the war, became popular with his fellow townsmen, being chosen to represent them in the General Assembly in 1797, '98, '99, 1800, '01, '04, '05, '06, '07, '08, and '15.

At the time of the sale of "Conn. Western Reserve" lands in Ohio in Oct., 1795, the citizens of Redding met and formed a school society, that they might have the benefit of the monies arising from the sale of Western lands. Peter Sanford, James Rogers, and Simeon Munger were the first committee of this society. Was also one of a committee of six appointed "to receive proposals and contract for building a Town House." This building was "36 feet long, 30 feet wide with 12-foot posts, covered with long cedar shingles, with sides of pine." It had "14 windows with 20 lights in each, and a chimney at each end." (Rev. Soldiers of Redding.)

Josiah Munger was a millwright and farmer. Lived in a section of the East Parish, locally known as "Mungertown," which is yet so called. Farm which he occupied still in possession of descendants. His old residence has been removed, and replaced by another, which stands near the site of the former dwelling. His old barn, on the opposite side of the road, is still standing, and is in constant use. The heavy timbers in this structure show the use of the adz and the broadax. It was south of this old barn where Jonathan Munger lived previous to his removal to "The Purchase" (Old Woodbury). (See Jonathan, 3d Gen., No. 9.) In the attic of the old Josiah Munger house were found fragments of an old "Family Tree," from which the copy in this book was made. Josiah is referred to in old records as "Capt." Is yet frequently spoken of as "Old Capt. Josiah."

Responded to the "Lexington Alarm" Apr. 20, 1775; also in "Capt. Bidwell's company, at New York, 1776; arrived Aug. 19; dis. Sept. 8."

Very little is known of David Munger; his name appears as witness to a deed passed between Merriman and Orange Munger, and bearing date of 22 Dec., 1788, all being residents of Bethlem. From descendants of Orange Munger, we learn that "David and my grand-father, Orange, were brothers." Under record of Orange Munger (No. 86) is given indisputable evidence that he was a son of Lewis and Elizabeth (Stone) Munger. Nothing is found concerning David, after the above date, in Bethlem. Possibly there only temporarily.

Descendants of George say that his father was a blacksmith and razor-maker. There is a tradition that David lost his life while watching his charcoal pits; he visited them alone, and not returning, search was made for him but he could not be found, the only clue to his possible fate being an opening on the top of one of the pits, through which he is supposed to

*We are of the opinion that David and Jonathan (81 and 82), sons of Lewis Munger, were twins. We have date of birth of Jonathan, from reliable sources. Records of deaths at "Bethlem," Conn., have "Lewis Munger's wife, 1758." She died at, or soon after, birth of Jonathan (Aug. 27, 1758). If David was not twin of Jonathan, he must have been born about the time given above. To those familiar with scripture, the names alone will suggest the idea of twins.

Jonathan Munger probably left Connecticut soon after marriage. In Dutchess Co., N. Y., early in 1791, and for some years following. In 1797, for a consideration of £72, bought land in Albany Co., of John Neilson of New Brunswick, N. J., which land was situated "In the gore between E. bounds of Rensselaer and West bounds of Coeymans Confirmations." "Jonathan C. Munger, and wife Rachel," sold the above mentioned land to Ira Lockwood, in 1801, and soon after removed to Chenango Co. It will be noticed that his name is given as Jonathan C. in the above land record. When or for what reason he acquired the C is not known. It does not appear in earlier records.

Served in the Colonial army in the War of the Revolution. "Jonathan Munger inlisted Feb. 1, 1776, in Capt. Watson's Company." Was at this time 17 yrs. old. "Received first months pay, Bounty and pay for blankets and napsack." (Rev. records.)

First U. S. census taken in Connecticut in 1790 shows that the family of "Merriman Munger of Bethlem" consisted of "One white male over 16; no white males under 16; one white female, including heads of family." No children at this date; probably recently married.

"Freemans oath administered to Merriman Munger, in 1796, by John Langdon, pastor of the church in B." (From note book of Pastor Langdon.)

The writer has assumed that Merriman Munger was a son of Lewis and Elizabeth (Stone) Munger, because of his given name. Lewis Munger was first son and child of Ensign Jonathan Munger, by his second wife, Accapie Lewis, who was daughter of Ebenezer and Elizabeth (Merriman) Lewis. The name Merriman does not appear among the children of any other son of Ensign Jonathan Munger. He was also contemporary with Orange Munger, who is known to have been son of Lewis and Elizabeth (Stone) Munger.

The "Milford Fever," of which Merriman Munger and his wife were the victims, was of an extremely virulent type, and apparently beyond medical skill of that day. It became epidemic, and caused much terror and extreme suffering among the people of southern New England. By some it was called "The Black Plague" from the fact that those afflicted began to mortify even before death ended their sufferings. This epidemic was known as the "Milford Fever" because of its having first appeared in that place.

"Freeman's oath administered to Orange Munger in 1798, by John Langdon, Pastor of the church in Bethlem." Until recently the parentage of Orange Munger had not been known for a certainty, although it was generally conceded that he was son of one of the sons of Ensign Jonathan Munger of the Congregational settlement of "Bethlem," in the "North Purchase." A recent examination of records at Bethlehem (Mar. 1911) revealed the fact that he was son of Lewis and Elizabeth (Stone) Munger. A deed bearing date of Apr. 6th, 1802, shows that he bought a certain piece of land of Elizabeth Munger. Another deed bearing date of Dec. 9, 1809, shows that he sold this same land to Daniel Strong of Bethlem. In describing land he says: "Said land is land I had of my mother Elizabeth Munger." His father, Lewis, died in 1801; his mother in 1809. His name appears in records at Bethlehem as late as 1825, after which date it was not found. Most of his children removed from Connecticut and settled in various sections of central New York.

Elisha Munger was a farmer. Served in the Revolution in Capt. Chapman's company, Col. John Mead's regt., from Dec. 28, 1777, to Mar. 1, 1778. Old Litchfield records call him Elisha S. Munger. He and his wife Polly were cousins. In a deed bearing date of May 10, 1791, from Giles Kilborn to his dau. Mary, she is called "wife of Elisha Stone Munger."

Samuel Munger having bought land in the "Holland Purchase," he removed from Roxbury to "West Hill," Warsaw, N. Y., in the winter of 1816 (known as the "cold year"), on a sled drawn by oxen, arriving on Mar. 16, having been six weeks on the journey. Cleared and cultivated a large farm, which he occupied the remainder of his active life. He was a member of the Baptist church. "A consistent Christian man; lover of peace and good will."

Talmage, son of Samuel and Olive Munger, died May 9, 1811, from burns received from falling into an open fire-place, while his mother was out of the house hanging clothes. Almon E., son of Samuel, also met a tragic death. "Had been given a new pocket knife, which he was showing to admiring companions, when they were called to the house. All started on a run, and in crowding through the door, the knife which he still held open in his hand, caught on the casing in such a manner as to plunge the blade into his side, killing him instantly." He was about 14 years of age.

Y., and worked there several years as a journeyman. Settled in Warsaw, in 1806, just south of the village, where for many years he carried on farming and the manufacturing of leather. He was considered one of the fathers of the Presbyterian church, of which he was a ruling elder, which office he held until his death." Was rigid in his religious views. Was a wealthy man for that day, most of which wealth he left to the Presbyterian church, which shows appreciation of his generosity by leaving his grave still unmarked.

Ebenezer Munger moved from Connecticut to the Mohawk Valley; from thence to Warsaw, Wyoming Co. Later in life bought a large tract of wild land in Conneaut Twp., Pa., a portion of which he occupied, the remainder he disposed of to his sons as they became heads of families. In the summer of 1899, the writer, in company with Mr. Turner Munger of the "Turkey Track Farm," drove along a country road for several miles, which passed through land and by farms said to be portions of the original "wild tract" taken up by Ebenezer Munger.

* Statement by H. H. Munger, son of Harvey.

William Munger

Born Glastonbury, Conn., April 23, 1783. Died Irvington, Neb., Sept. 2d, 1871. Buried Prospect Hill Cemetery, Omaha, Neb.

In early life was a sailor and ever loved to recall his experiences on the ocean. Was married Nov. 27, 1810, to Eunice Coleman. They journeyed westward to Genesee County, New York, where they remained a few years on a farm and then went to Troy, Ohio. Here was born the last of the family of nine children and here his wife died.

In 1858, William Munger made another move westward, going down the Ohio and up the Missouri Rivers by steamboat to Omaha. He took up a claim at Elkhorn, Neb., and farmed as long as age would permit. Was of a quiet, mild and gentle disposition. Was a member of the Presbyterian Church. His grandchildren recall the picture of him often poring over his Bible.

5th Gen.

Miles Munger was a cooper. Jan. 27, 1821, was granted permission to erect a "cooper shop" in Guilford. Is also mentioned in old records as a carpenter. His house stood near the corner of "Crooked Lane" and what is now Union Street, and faced the latter. His son-in-law, Franklin C. Phelps, later built a house on the same lot, but facing "Crooked Lane." This locality is known as the "Triangle."

Miles Munger served in the War of 1812; was a "Minute Man"; wore his regimentals to church as long as he lived. Member of the Congregational church at Guilford.

William Munger in early life followed the sea for some years. Removed from Connecticut to Bergen, Genesee Co., N. Y. It has been said that his son William C. was born just previous to reaching their destination. Removed to Troy, O., in 1829 or '30, where he remained until about 1858, when he removed with his son William and daughter Cordelia E. and others, to Omaha, Neb., going by boat down the Ohio and up the Missouri to their destination. His son did not remain, but returned east.

"Hervey Munger was a farmer on a large scale living on the line between Warren and Montgomery counties, in Ohio, a farm which is still in the family. He was a strong man; five feet ten inches in stature, and inclined to corpulency. As a child he had come to Ohio when his father removed from Vt., in 1797. He grew up in the dense forest country which was subdued into fertile fields by the labor of two generations. Schools were very poor, and his children were not given much opportunity for an education. At his death he left a large estate for the time and place."

In the War of 1812 he was in the army with his uncle, Gen. Edmund Munger, as a teamster hauling supplies to the troops at Piqua and Urbana.

His wife Catherine was of slight stature; of a vivacious disposition, and esteemed "good company." She came to Ohio with her parents in 1809. Her father served in the Revolution in the 2d Essex regt. and in Capt. Craig's State troops of New Jersey.

"Hervey Munger was a stern man; his word was law in his family; a strong contrast to our mother." (S. E. C.)

Elizur D. Munger occupied the old homestead at Norfolk, caring for his father, and an aged unmarried aunt (Elizabeth), his father's sister, until the death of the latter in 1832-3, his father having died previously. His daughter gives the following account of the removal from Norfolk:

"My father, Elizur Dudley Munger, landed at Detroit, Nov. 1, 1833, with his wife and family—Martin E., three years old, and Samuel C., one year old, and Harriet North, twelve years of age, whom he had taken to bring up, and who came from Norfolk with him. He purchased 120 acres of heavily timbered land in the Township of Dundee, Territory of Michigan. Cleared a small place and put up a log house, which was about 14 of a mile from the village of Dundee. Experienced many of the hardships and inconveniences of pioneer life."

This writer says further: "My great-grandmother on my mother's side was Rachel Munger, who was Mrs. Nathan Case, and was related to my father's father; either sister or niece.* Rachel Munger married Nathan Case, and had a large family. Their eldest, Alma, married Asa Simonds in 1809; had two children: Mary P. and Eliza Alma. Mary P. Simonds married my father at Middlebury, Vt. After birth of second child, Asa Simonds went to war (1812) and was killed in battle."

"My grandfather (Elizur) had a sister Elizabeth, who lived with him until he died (1828) and then lived with my father and mother about four years, when she died (1832/3). There was an aunt Abigail of whom I have heard my father speak, but I cannot recall her name. Aunt Abigail lived near father in (Norfolk) Conn."

"After settlement in Michigan, had first contract with the Government for carrying the mails in Dundee township, and held it for more than thirty years. Each of his sons, as they arrived at a sufficient age, were sworn as mail carriers. Until roads were made the mail was carried on horseback, the pouch lying over the pommel of the saddle. This duty was accomplished with no little danger, in all weathers and under all conditions. Most roads at that time were but narrow trails through the forest: streams were frequently without bridges and had to be forded or crossed on the ice. To have held this contract for so many years, speaks well for the faithful performance of its requirements." (Mrs. E. C. P.)

* Rachel (Munger) Case was the daughter of Nathaniel Munger, brother of Elizur, father of Elizur Dudley Munger. The latter held the peculiar and unusual relation of cousin to his wife's grandmother.

Warren Munger, by profession, was a lawyer; educated at Litchfield Law School, Litchfield, Conn. He removed with his parents from Norfolk, Conn., to Middlebury, Vt., when about two years of age. From thence the family migrated to Ohio, at that time a part of the "Old Northwest Territory," settling in Washington Twp., Montgomery Co.

Truman Munger m. (2d) Alma Maltbie, of Xenia, Green Co., O., Oct. 8, 1866. No issue.

He moved from Vermont to Ohio, with his parents. In 1821 or '22, moved to what is now Fayette Co., Ind., and in 1837 to Illinois, living in Menard and Mason counties about thirty years. From thence to Prairie City, which was his last place of residence, in 1868. Formerly a member of the Christian church, but later united with the Freewill Baptists. Gave freely of his means in support of the gospel. "A man of few words, even tempered, quiet and unassuming; temperate in his habits and highly esteemed by all who knew him." Though in declining health, his energy prompted to labor, and he was stricken with death while at work in his garden. He was 87 years of age.

He served as Ensign in the Ohio militia in the War of 1812, and in his late years was a pensioner.

"Amos Irvin and Minerva Munger, began their married life with a piece of land in the woods, and almost nothing else; built their own house and did every thing for them-selves. She spun and wove wool and flax of their own raising. Had no tea-kettle until she got money for linen shirts made for soldiers in the War of 1812, with which she bought a copper tea-kettle which is still in the family. (AD. 1900.) Lately the spout has become loose till which it was fit for use, and often used."

6th Gen.

Clarkson Butterworth, Esq., of Waynesville, O., son-in-law of Minerva (Munger) Irvin, has furnished the writer with the following notes of information derived years ago from his mother-in-law and which he has preserved. While not entirely correct, they are nevertheless interesting.

"Elizur Munger, and Anna Munger were of Vermont, and some of their children were Nathaniel, Reuben, Dudley, Jonathan, Edmund, and Abigail. I think Jonathan was the oldest son and Edmund the next son. Jonathan and Edmund, with a nephew Benjamin Maltbie, and perhaps other kindred moved to Marietta, O., in 1797. In the spring of 1798 moved to Belpre. In the spring of 1799, they came down to Columbia on a flat-boat bringing some hogs, some corn, two oxen and one horse. When they landed at Columbia at the mouth of the Little Miami, all the hogs except one sow and pigs got frightened and jumped into the river and swam across and disappeared in the forest of Kentucky."

Amos Irvin was a farmer. Associate judge of Montgomery Co., Ohio, for twelve years. Trustee of his township for sixteen successive years. Served as captain of a company in the War of 1812, for a short time immediately after Hull's surrender.

George Munger, in early life, was for a time a successful teacher. Is referred to in old records as "George Munger, Gentleman." "Was a portrait painter in the early days of art in Conn., but a severe illness interrupted his plans, and he gave up the work for some years. Resumed painting in 1815, when he threw the pent-up enthusiasm of the years of his silence into his work. A miniature owned in New Haven"—and others owned by his great grandson, Mr. George B. Munger, of East River, Conn.—"show excellent coloring, and masterly handling; his portraits are honored to-day. He expended all of his vitality in his art" and died in the prime of his manhood. "Personally he was mild and gentle, but immovably determined."

He built, and for some years operated salt works at Milford, Conn., until they were swept away by the "Great September gale." A house which he built just previous to his marriage (1800-1802) is still standing in Madison, Conn., and is yet in excellent condition (1913).

Walter P. Munger was a prominent resident of East Guilford (now Madison), holding nearly every office in the gift of the town—Town Clerk and Treasurer; Selectman; Justice of the Peace, etc. Was locally known, and is yet spoken of, as "Squire Walter." Records at Madison show him to have been a painstaking and efficient Town Clerk. Was a farmer, living on the high land, "rearing up from the sea," in that part of East Guilford then and yet locally known as "Munger Town" because of the number bearing the name, who lived there. Left manuscript notes concerning the earlier members of the Munger family, which have proved of much value in the compiling of this work. Appointed deacon in Congregational church at Madison, Aug. 17, 1850, serving until his death.

"David Allen Munger was a farmer. Moved from New York State to Indiana in 1836 when that state was a comparatively new country, and settled on and improved a farm. Lived in Indiana until 1859, when he removed to Kansas which was then a territory. He and his family saw some pretty stirring times during the Civil War." He received such education as was to be had in the public schools of his day. Was always a great reader. A very active man; at 85 years, often took long walks although he had a horse and buggy in his barn. He was a Baptist.

Garry B. Munger was by trade a carpenter, but for many years was engaged in dressed meat business at Colchester. Summer and winter, the earliest dawn saw him on his way to Burlington with his load of lamb and veal. "He fed Burlington," was said of him. A quiet, unassuming man; lover of his home and family. Was one of the original members of the Methodist church at Colchester, and did much throughout his life for its support, being ably seconded by his wife, also a member of the church for many years. In the latter part of her life Mrs. Munger become totally blind but bore her great affliction with cheerfulness and courage. Although deprived of sight she wrote many poems which are preserved by her remaining children.

July 9, 1879, Mr. and Mrs. Munger celebrated their golden wedding, a goodly number of their friends assembling to celebrate the event with them. Near the close of the evening their pastor, Rev. John Chase, in behalf of the assembled friends, presented the aged couple with a purse containing money, part of which was gold coin. Mr. Munger, with much emotion, thanked his friends for their kindness and good will. After prayer and singing the doxology, the company dispersed. The following poem, written for the occasion by Mrs. M. E. Cox, was read during the evening:

Fifty years amid life's changes,
You have journeyed side by side;
In the west your sun declining,
Brings the quiet even tide.
Friends of the past and of the present,
Now have gathered on your way;
To celebrate the happy bridal,
Of just fifty years to-day.

O'er what scenes of grief and gladness,
Are your glances backward cast;
Days of shadow and of sunshine,
Into both your lives have passed.
Many times the clouds have gathered,
And the storms of sorrow swept
O'er the brightness of your pathway,
And for loved ones you have wept.

6th Gen.

But the God of every blessing,
Safely guides from shore to shore;
Far His care has led you onward,
Love Him, trust Him, evermore.
O'er the sea of Life your voyage,
Draweth nearer to its close;
Gales propitious bear you gently,
To the port of sure repose.

Garry B. and Ruby (Tyler) Munger are buried in the Methodist cemetery at Colchester, Vt., a twin headstone marking their graves.

Morgan M. Munger came from Roxbury, Conn., in Mar., 1816 (the cold year), walking most of the way beside the sled, drawn by oxen, on which were the household effects and other property of the family, his mother and the smaller children: much of the way guiding the ox team along the rough path. One can imagine the trials and inconveniences attending such a trip, eating and sleeping along the way, in a winter which has become memorable for its severe and long continued cold.

Arriving in the village of Warsaw, he assisted his father in making a home on the fifty acres of new land secured from the "Holland Co." He continued to work on the farm until the death of his parents, when he assumed the indebtedness due the "Holland Co.," paid it off and purchased 125 acres adjoining, later acquiring considerable more land, and at the time of his death owned a farm of nearly three hundred acres, which by his industry and persistent care had become one of the best pieces of farm property in Wyoming county.

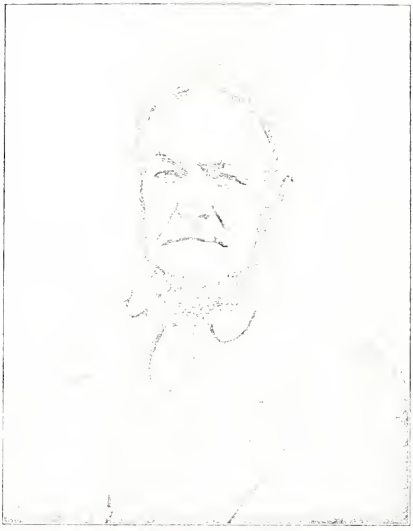
Mr. Munger was of a generous disposition, ever ready to assist those in less fortunate circumstances than himself. "No hungry person was ever turned from his door." He never forgot a friend, or one who had done him a favor. Apropos to this is the following incident: "He had bought a pair of steers, agreeing to pay for them in a short time. Some time after, meeting the man of whom he had purchased the steers, he paid him, the latter passing along the road, counting his money. Some months after, the former owner of the steers made a second demand for payment. Mr. Munger, insisted that he had once paid, but not having any proof, was in a quandary, when a neighbor stepped up and said that on the morning of the day on which Mr. Munger claimed he had settled the bill, he had met the man now making a second demand, and had asked him where he had got so much money, and he had replied that Mr. Munger had just paid him for a pair of steers. In recognition of this opportune favor, Mr. Munger furnished his neighbor with fire wood as long as he lived," a no small reward in those days.

"His word was as good as his note, and was so respected by all who knew him. He never aspired to public office, but always attended town meetings, and used his vote and personal influence in the interest of the public good."

"He was a member of the Baptist church of Warsaw; lover of his Bible, he followed its precepts in faith and practice in his daily life."

At the time of his death he left a practically unincumbered estate. Some of the items in the inventory, aside from the house, barn and out-buildings, were: 292 acres of land, 150 sheep, 23 head of cattle, 4 horses, 8 head of swine, and numerous farm implements and tools, such as were in use in those days, and a new top buggy and harness valued at $165.00.

After his marriage, wishing to build a new house he went into an adjoining county and bought standing white pine timber, hired men to help to fell it and cut it into logs, which were hauled to the sawmill and fashioned



ROBERT RAYMOND MUNGER

Born Roxbury, Conn., Dec. 19, 1802; accompanied his parents in 1816 to Warsaw, N. Y., where he lived till his death in 1879. He was an energetic, industrious youth and before 1825 had obtained by his unaided efforts a good farm. Before middle age he had become a prominent citizen and owner of much real estate. He was characterized through life by shrewdness, energy and resourcefulness; was an advocate of temperance and the anti-slavery movement; his uprightness and thoroughness was shown not only in private life but also in public work which he performed at various times for the town.

into building material. This lumber he drew home, where, after sufficient seasoning, it was used for the new dwelling. The peculiarity of this house is that all the interior finish, doors, sash, mantels, wainscoting, etc., was hand finished. This house was built in 1844-5, and is yet standing on the original "homestead farm" on "West Hill." (From notes by P. T. B. M.)

"Robert Raymond Munger, as one of the older children in a pioneer family, was early trained to work and had little opportunity for schooling. When the family removed to Warsaw, he and his brother Morgan drove the oxen, thus themselves walking most of the long journey from Connecticut. The first winter in his new home he wished to attend school, and was told by his father he might do so if he would first fell the trees on an acre of ground and cut them into logs to be hauled off. He succeeded, and thus had his last term of schooling. He started early in life to make his fortune with only his hands and an indomitable will. That he succeeded in some measure is shown by the fact that before middle age he had become a prominent citizen and large land owner in his home town. When about twenty years old he had earned enough to buy forty acres adjoining his father's farm, and to build a house, which is now owned and occupied by his nephew Jason Munger. For several years he owned and conducted the Columbian Hotel, a well known stage tavern, on the route to and from Buffalo. From 1844 for ten years he lived on one of the several farms which he owned. In 1855, again moved into the village, carrying on a flouring mill business for four years, when he again retired to a farm. In 1864 again moved into town, where he spent the most of the remainder of his life. He was a typically shrewd, energetic Yankee; quick in movement, resourceful, and of great physical endurance; honest and upright in his life."

Samuel T. Munger m. (2d) Eliza Ann Haskell, at Corinth, N. Y., Aug. 29, 1853, dau. Nathaniel and Polly (Hyde) Haskell; b. July 6, 1819, at Sandy Hill on the Hudson; d. at Gowanda, N. Y., May 6, 1891, aged 72 yrs. In 1850 came to Buffalo via the Erie canal, and from thence to Gowanda.

In early life was bound out to his uncle, Dea. John Munger, an early settler at Warsaw, to learn the trade of tanner and shoemaker. Upon reaching his majority he came to Lodi (now Gowanda) on horseback and went as far as Warren, Pa., prospecting, but returned to Lodi in July, 1829. After his first marriage he began housekeeping at Lodi, which was their home for ten years, during which time he conducted a successful tanning and shoemaking business. In 1839 he purchased the farm of Thomas B. Soule of Collins, N. Y., where he added farming to his boot and shoe business, and where he lived until 1853, when he purchased the farm and built the house in which he died. Among those who attended his funeral was an Indian chief from the reservation, a friend of Mr. Munger's. He was invited into the house but refused by a gesture and seated himself on the grass in front of the house where he could hear, where he remained in an attitude of deep dejection throughout the services, at the conclusion of which he arose, folded his blanket about him and walked away without having spoken a word during his visit.

Caroline M. Munger came from Roxbury, Conn., to Warsaw, N. Y., with her parents in 1816, when eight years of age, on a sled drawn by oxen. In 1831 came to Lodi (now Gowanda), N. Y., and taught school in the little red school house on Buffalo street, where the Ricks Block now stands. In 1833 taught school in Perrysburg, N. Y., in a school house situated half way between Perrysburg and Versailles. That winter she had seventy scholars, teaching without an assistant. She taught with success, the occupation being a congenial one. She kept herself well informed, and was always abreast of the times.

Soon after marriage she gave up her school and settled on a farm in Perrysburg. Her husband died in 1850, leaving her with a family of six children. In 1858 she exchanged the farm in Perrysburg for a larger one in Warren Co., Pa., then in the wilderness, where the family experienced all the discomforts and privations of pioneer life, living in a log house and suffering from the depredations of wild beasts. Her eldest son still occupies a portion of this farm, oil and gas developments having made it extremely valuable.

Emory Munger came from Wyoming Co., N. Y., in 1841, and settled on a new farm in Conneaut Twp., Crawford Co., Pa., being part of a large tract of "wild" land previously taken up by his father, Ebenezer. "He was a mute, and a large share of the management of the farm, and the care and education of a large family, necessarily devolved upon his wife; but with a fortitude and affection which preëminently belongs to a wife and mother, she faithfully and successfully bore her part."

Emory Munger was educated in Philadelphia at one of the first schools for mutes established in this country. None of his children are mutes.

RUSSELL MUNGER

Born in Guilford, Conn., in 1790. In 1809, in company with an older brother, he walked to Riga, N. Y., where he leased land, made a small clearing and built a log house. In December, 1812, he walked back to Connecticut, returning the following Spring, bringing his bride, Lucy Thomas, in an oxcart. She lived only eight years. In 1822, he married Betsy Tuttle.

He was one of the originators of the Stone Church Presbyterian Society. In 1832 he moved to North Bergen, where he was deacon of the church till his death in 1870.

Russell Munger walked from Milford, Conn., to Monroe Co., N. Y., cleared a space on land he is said to have bought of his brother Gaylord, built a log cabin, and at the approach of winter returned east, following the blazed path through the then wilderness of New York State. On Christmas day, 1812, married and at the opening of spring took his bride and his few household effects in a cart drawn by oxen and made his way to the log cabin in the wilderness. He cleared more land, burned the logs, and planted corn and potatoes among the stumps of the trees he had felled. Here he had lived nearly eight years, enduring the privation, inconveniences, and dangers of pioneer life, when a much greater calamity befel him in the death of his young wife, leaving him alone in the wilderness with four small children. He soon married again. "It was not a romantic courtship and marriage, but rather one of necessity as his children needed a mother's care, but the second wife proved herself a noble helpmeet."

Gaylord Munger was a farmer living at No. Bristol (now No. Madison). Was of rugged physique and a great worker. It is said he could lay more stone wall, and lay it better, than any man in town. A story in this connection was told the writer while at East River, Conn. A certain man had a schooner built at the shipyard on the East River. Wishing to know her sailing qualities, he hired a skipper to take her on a trial trip. On the return the owner asked: "How does she sail?" "Can't sail as fast as Gaylor' Munger can lay stone wall," was the reply. Before his marriage, he went into New York State and purchased land, but becoming homesick he returned East and sold his land in the wilderness to his brother Russell, who subsequently occupied and cultivated it. One of the founders of the Clinton (Conn.) National Bank, and an original stock holder, which stock is still in the family. A man of honesty and rare good judgment, he was often called upon to arbitrate neighborhood controversies.

Truman Munger is said to have been a man of fine personal appearance. The late Rev. W. H. H. Murray once told the following story of his uncle Truman: "He was 6 feet, 7 inches tall, of fine physique, and an accomplished violinist. Because of this attractive combination of musical ability and personal appearance, he was approached by a theatrical manager to appear upon the stage, offering a generous salary for those days as an inducement. The offer was refused because of 'conscientious scruples.'"

Both of the sons of Sally (Munger) Murray were ministers. William Henry Harrison Murray was long pastor of the Congregational church at "Brimstone Corner" in Boston. An author of strength and originality; wrote numerous books and short stories, some of which the scenes were laid in the Adirondack mountains. For this reason, and because of his love for the "North Woods" and his frequent sojourns there he was known as "Adirondack Murray."

Sherman Munger moved from No. Madison to New Haven; from thence to Iowa in 1856. "Left Iowa City early in the spring of 1857 for Kansas, overland through Missouri. Supposed to have been killed by 'Border Ruffians' as he was never heard of after leaving Iowa City." It has since been learned that he was a cattle buyer, and was accustomed to carrying large sums of money in cash on his person, checks and drafts not being available as now. He was probably murdered solely for the purpose of robbery and his taking off had no political significance. Is described as being energetic; "a pusher" in a business way; a "money getter."

William C. Munger moved from New York to Ohio with his father, living at Troy; from Ohio to Kentucky. Was a newspaper man, printer and editor. About 1858 accompanied his father to Nebraska Territory, but did not remain, returning to Kentucky. Was president and captain of fire company No. 2 of Covington, Ky., in the fifties; also member of the "Covington Fencibles," an independent military company. Last residence, Franklin, Simpson Co., Ky. "As a man engaged in the stirring scenes of public life, and as a citizen, he won for himself universal esteem. As a member of the Masonic fraternity, he shared its highest honors. He was a member of the Presbyterian church, and as such was highly respected."

"Sir Knight Munger, at the time of his death was Grand Recorder of the Grand Commandery; Past Grand Junior Warden of the Grand Encampment of the U. S.; Past Grand Commander of Kentucky, and Past Commander of Louisville Commandery, No. 1, K. T."

Theodore T. Munger moved with his father from Bainbridge to Homer, Cortland Co., N. Y., in 1836, which place was the family home for many years and where he passed his boyhood and early youth. Entered Western Reserve College, where he spent part of his Freshman year, when he left and entered Yale. Graduated from Yale in 1851, and from Yale Divinity school in 1855. He was ordained to his first pastorate at Dorchester, Mass., in 1856, going thence to Haverhill, Mass., in 1862; to Lawrence, Mass., in 1870; to San José, Cal., in 1875; to North Adams, Mass., in 1876; and to New Haven, Conn., to the United church, a year and a half after the North and Third Congregational churches were merged, in 1885. He resigned from the New Haven pastorate in Oct., 1900.

Dr. Munger was the author of numerous literary and theological essays, besides writing several books, among which were "Lamps and Paths," especially addressed to young persons; "On the Threshold," which was calculated to instruct young people going out into the world; the "Freedom of Faith," which came out at the time of the controversy over the new theology; "The Appeal to Life," "Horace Bushnell, Preacher and Theologian," "Character Through Inspiration," and "Essays for the Day."

Nearly nine years previous to his death he laid down the burden of the active ministry and not long thereafter he voluntarily retired from the corporation of Yale University. His last years were spent quietly at his home in New Haven. During this time he made occasional offerings from his pen to the larger themes of literature and religious thought, tenderly watched and loyally supported the labors of his successor in the pulpit he had made great, and kept still closer to his friends and grew even younger in spirit and broader in sympathy.

328. v. Curtis[7] Munger (Jesse,[6] Jesse,[5] Ebenezer,[4] Ebenezer,[3] John,[2] Nicholas[1]). b. Bergen, N. Y., ———, 1820; d. Feb. 5, 1891, at his farm in Clio, Genesee Co., Mich., aged 71 yrs.; m. Juliet Warner, who survived him. They had no children. Removed from Bergen, N. Y., to Detroit, Mich., in 1840-41, and to Lower Saginaw (now Bay City) in 1848, through stress of circumstance and not from choice.

Was one of a party of men who went from Detroit to Thunder Bay Island, Lake Huron, in 1846, to engage in catching white fish for the eastern market. In the fall of 1848 were intending to take one of the down steamers and return to Detroit, as they were nearly out of provisions and winter approaching. Several steamers passed, but so far out in the lake that they did not see their signals. It was growing cold—snow-storm set in, and their provisions were gone. They took turns sitting up at night to keep a signal fire burning and to hail any passing vessel to take them off. To add to their discomfort a heavy snow-storm came on and what to do they did not know. To remain would be folly as winter had commenced; they were also getting hungry. One of the party proposed that they start for Lower Saginaw (as Bay City was then called) in their open fish boat, where, if they could reach it, they would surely find shelter. This was agreed to, and loading some fish into the boat, they set sail. Soon after starting a heavy snow-storm came up and they were compelled to keep bailing the boat to keep afloat. In the evening they reached Point Au Gres where they landed to seek rest from the terrible experiences of the day. In the morning they found ice had formed along the shore for several rods out into the lake, and a gale was blowing so they could not leave. Here they remained for two days, sleeping in the boat in their wet clothes, being nearly frozen, and living on partly cooked fish. On the third day they started for Saginaw river, which they reached in safety. Here they remained with friends of one of their number until somewhat recovered from their terrible exposure. Munger was in his stocking feet when he landed, his feet being so swollen from exposure he could not get his boots on. In after years when he had prospered, he was wont to say: "When I came to Bay City I was in my stocking feet."

Settling here he engaged with Edwin Park, a companion in the terrible voyage from Thunder Bay Island, in the manufacture of fish barrels, which they sold to lake fishermen. Later he engaged in mercantile pursuits and was the leading merchant for many years. He was Treasurer of Bay County for several years, and his accounts "were always straight." May 2, 1859, he was elected "President of the village." In connection with his brother Algernon S. Munger, who came to Bay City in 1854, he built some of the first business blocks of the town. He was a man who had many friends and is said to have been "honest in all his dealings with his fellow men."

In church affiliation an Episcopalian; vestryman of Trinity church, Lower Saginaw, organized Mar. 4, 1854.

"Algernon S. Munger, when about 18 years of age, became a resident of Oakland Co., Mich., and afterward for about two years was engaged in farming near Adrian. Married and located on a farm in Cass Co., where he lived five years. While living here his wife Adeline died, after which he removed to Elkhart, Ind., where he opened a grocery store. About 1854 removed to Lower Saginaw (later Bay City), where his brother Curtis had preceded him. They opened a general store and soon built up a large trade, continued many years, part of the time having a partner named Edwin Park. During this time they also acquired a good deal of landed property. In 1864 they changed their business to dry goods and occupied a brick block built and owned by themselves. In 1873 the business was removed to a larger brick block which they built on Center avenue. After two or three years they retired from mercantile business and devoted their attention to the care and management of their farms and other property. About 1888 Curtis, being in failing health, transferred all his interests to his brother Algernon and retired to his farm, relinquishing all business.

"Algernon S. and his brother Curtis were active and prominent in building up and promoting the growth and prosperity of the town and county. The former was elected County Treasurer in 1868 and 1870; Mayor of Bay City in 1871; Director of the First National Bank. Held many positions of trust; as receiver, administrator, etc. In the 60's, when the village needed a railroad connection with Flint and Pere Marquette, it was determined to build a road to Saginaw. Saginaw was not friendly to the scheme but the company (Bay City and East Saginaw) was organized and A. S. Munger made Superintendent of Construction, and in the face of many obstacles he soon had the track laid. For this work he was presented with an expensive gold watch and chain, the former suitably inscribed.

"In 1871-2, the Detroit and Bay City R. R. was building a road (since absorbed by the Michigan Central) which would pass through the town of Merritt. Algernon S. had interests in that town and was able to get the road located near his land and get a station there which took the name of Munger. He built the first station house there and for the first year bore the expense of maintaining it. A thriving little village has since grown up there. This village was his last place of residence, and the place of his death.

In 1827, Sylvester S. Munger, with his father, moved from Connecticut to Darlington, S. C., where he received an academic education. In 1835 he went to live with his eldest brother at Society Hill, Miss. In January, 1838, he removed to Texas and settled at the old town of San Felipe de Austin, on the Brazos river, and at this early day became identified with the early settlement and pioneer life of the Republic of Texas, partaking of its many hardships and privations.

In 1841-2, he was a member of the "Milam Guards" under command of Capt. James F. Riley of Houston, which was an organization of "Minute Men" subject to the call of the President of the Republic of Texas. They did patrol service for some weeks at Houston when the "Regulators" threatened to come into the city and arrest some of its worthy citizens.

After seven or eight years' service as district clerk of Austin County, and several years' study and preparation, he was admitted to the practice of law by the Supreme Court of the State, and continued to practice until the beginning of the Civil War, when in consequence of the greatly changed conditions he abandoned his practice, turning it over to other attorneys, and erected a large cotton mill at Eureka, near Houston, investing in this enterprise a large amount, which unfortunately went down in failure, after which he successfully operated several saw mills.

He was elected judge of Fayette County in 1855. In 1862 he was appointed by Gen. Magruder as bearer of dispatches between the Trans- and Cis-Mississippi departments of the army connecting Houston, Tex., with Alexandria, La., 290 miles. This distance had to be covered in forty hours, no excuse being received for failure. This work was often accomplished at night, over dangerous roads and quicksands, and the crossing of two rivers, but the contractor had nerve and energy which could not be overcome by obstacles and he braved the greatest dangers. In three years' service there was but one failure, this being caused by intense cold, overheating the horses and having no stable or blankets to protect them.

Near the close of the war he was one of a company to import into Texas from Mexico machinery for the manufacture of cotton and woolen goods, being located at Bastrop, under the name of the "Bastrop Manufacturing Company." This plant was successfully operated until the close of the war.

In 1885 he was appointed postmaster at Lampasas by President Arthur, and reappointed by President Cleveland during his first term. He was a member of the Texas Veterans' Association, and for some years previous to his death had taken an active interest in its meetings. He was made a Master Mason in 1853; became a member of the Masonic Grand Lodge of Texas, in 1857, and held many important positions under the Grand Lodge of the State. In 1870 he was elected grand high priest of the Royal Arch Chapter of Texas, and at the time of his death was the oldest past grand high priest, both in point of service and years, in the State.

In 1845, he joined the Methodist Episcopal church, South; and had remained a constant member until his death, a period of something over fifty-five years, during most of which time he was an official of the church and prominently connected with the building of a number of new churches.

At the time of his death he was a member of Saratoga Lodge, A. F. and A. M., of Lampasas, by which lodge he was buried.

28, 1906; m. Lucy Howes, at ———, Oct. 19, 1869, dau. William and Lucinda (Cooley) Howes, of Prescott, Wis.; granddaughter of Joseph and Patty (Wilder) Howes of Montpelier, Vt., and a descendant of Gov. Paine of New Hampshire. No children.

Lyman P. Munger left Vermont when a young man. Before settling in life, saw some of the strenuous life of the mining camps in the then territories of Colorado and Nevada. At one place took an active part in quelling the rule of the "bad man" and restoring law and order. Located at Hannibal, Mo., in 1866, which place was his home until his death. Was engaged in business with his brother William A., the firm being known as the "Hannibal Lime Company." Progressive in his ideas, he was one of the foremost business men of the place. Had large holdings in landed estate in and about Hannibal. At the time of his death, flags throughout the city were at half-mast, and stores were closed during the hours of his funeral. A gentleman by instinct and training; kindly, sympathetic and helpful; but drew the line sharply between right and wrong. President of the "Hannibal Humane Society." Member of the Episcopal church, serving as vestryman for some years. Member of the "Sons of the American Revolution." Republican in politics, but never sought or accepted any political preferment.

Mahala Anna Casey, in 1865, dau. Hon. Samuel K. Casey, eldest son of Gov. Zodoc Casey, an early settler of southern Illinois, and for many years a member of Congress. She d. in 1894. They had no children.

William A. Munger was for many years active in Hannibal business affairs. At the outbreak of the Civil War, he organized Co. "G," 100th Reg't, Ill. Vol. Inf'y, of which he was made Captain. He served in the battles of Chickamauga, Missionary Ridge, and Chattanooga, and many others receiving special notice for his conduct in the battle of Stuart Creek in 1863. At the close of the war in 1865, he came to Hannibal, engaging in the farm implement business. Six years later he and his brother, Lyman P. Munger, became interested in the manufacturing of lime, and in quarrying. They were also extensively engaged in agriculture, owning large tracts of land in the Bay Island and Sni Bottoms, along the Mississippi. He was president of the Business Men's Association for five years, and in 1880 was elected Mayor of Hannibal. He was a Democrat in politics.

George D. Munger lived on his father's farm in Dundee until fifteen years of age, when he went to Lansing, where he became a clerk and attended school. At the breaking out of the Civil War he entered the Union Army, serving more than three years in Co. "D," 7th Mich Infy., entering as a private, and holding commission as Captain, at the close of the war. He was one of the men who volunteered to cross the pontoon bridge at Fredericksburg—one of the heroic deeds of the Civil War. Many were killed as they crossed, but the attempt was successful and the Confederates were driven from their position.

He took part in many engagements of the war, and was once captured by Confederates and held a prisoner at Libby and other military prisons, but was exchanged later. He succeeded to the command of Co. "I," and at the close of the war commanded the right division of his regiment in the famous Grand Review at Washington.

7th Gen.

After the close of the war he returned to Michigan and entered the drug business. In 1871 he removed to Newton, Kans., where he engaged in the same pursuit for three years, going thence to Trinidad, Colo., where he engaged in the same business in an adobe house. In 1884, he graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons at St. Louis, following which he again moved to Kansas.

When Oklahoma was opened to settlement he was one of the first to come to Oklahoma City (Apr. 22, 1889) opening temporary quarters on Broadway, where he displayed a physician's sign which he had brought with him, and thus became the city's first physician. He was for some years a member of the United States pension board of examining surgeons, and at one time its president. He was active as a G. A. R. man, and in 1898 was Department Commander for Oklahoma.

He had no children.

John James Munger was Deputy Sheriff, Town Clerk and Constable at Dundee, Mich., from 1868 to 1880. Removed to Kansas; Registrar of Deeds of Finney County from 1884 to 1888. Mayor of Garden City, 1893-95. Removed to Palmer Lake, Colo., and was appointed postmaster at that place in 1898, later removing to Canyon City. Now (1909) resides at Alamitos Bay, Cal. Church, Christian Science.

"Served in the Civil War in 7th and 18th regiments, Mich. Infy. Was severely wounded in the head at Athens, Ga., and fell into the hands of the Confederates, and was a prisoner at Andersonville, seven months. Was reported dead, and preparations were made for a funeral service in his memory, which was prevented by the dangerous condition of an elder brother on the day appointed, who was at home suffering from a wound received in battle. Later was exchanged and returned home, where after months of suffering, and special treatment in hospital at Detroit, he recovered." (E. C. P.)

"Albert Henry Munger lived on his father's farm until 1863, when at the age of 16 years went into the Union Army, remaining there until the close of the war. After that contracted to work for the Government in the Commissary Department in Detroit, Mich., remaining there one and one-half years on account of his brother who was suffering from wounds received in service having to go there for treatment. Later returned home and went to school for one year and then hired out at a country store at Manchester, Mich., at the princely(?) salary of $100.00 pr. year, remaining there four years with a small increase in salary each year. In 1871 went to Detroit as salesman in a wholesale dry goods business. In 1875, in connection with others, organized the firm of Burnham, Stopel & Co., of Detroit, and the firms of Burnham-Hanna-Munger Dry Goods Co. and the Burnham-Munger M'f'g Co. of Kansas City. Mr. Munger is called one of the first business men of the West."

He writes as follows concerning the Civil War: "During the war five brothers of us entered the service; one as Surgeon; one as Cap't; and one as Lieu't; and one in the army transportation department; and the writer, who never rose above the rank of private, of which I am justly proud because they are so very scarce."

Harris Munger was a farmer. On removal to Alpha, Green Co., O., in 1872, both Mr. and Mrs. Munger became members of the Methodist Protestant church of that place and continued a consistent relation until death. He was Superintendent of the Sunday school for many years. A great lover of children, one of his last acts was to provide a treat for them at his expense. "Many ministers will recall with pleasure the hours spent in their home." At their death a double funeral was held, and they were buried in one grave.

Mrs. Badger was an artist in flower painting; in her day called the best in America. Many of her flower pieces were bought by the best houses of New York and reproduced in sets on plate paper, and had a large sale. Verses of her composing accompanied some of her paintings and are beautifully descriptive, and show poetic ability of no mean quality. These plates are now very rare and valuable.

TO THE RHODODENDRON.

I charge thee, flower of beauty born,
Lift not thy head too high;
For, like the lowliest of thy race,
Thou, too, wert born to die.

The Power that lifts thee to the sun,
And bends thee to the gale,
Doth watch with equal care and love,
The Lily of the vale.

The liberal hand that touched thy cheek
With love's enchanting hue,
Gave the Lobelia's dazzling red,
The Violet its blue.

Then not like man, proud man, look down,
And curl thy lip in scorn
On the companions of thy path,
Because more lowly born.

Seest thou the Rose, so modestly
Her lovely head recline?
And yet the Queen of flowers is she,
Whose blushes equal thine.

Yet, midst thy leaves of evergreen,
So sweetly hast thou blown;
But for the fragrance of the Rose,
Thou might'st dispute the crown.

Soon after marriage, Walter S. Munger moved to Bergen, N. Y., where he remained until July, 1858, when he returned to Connecticut, locating at Watertown, where he practiced his profession until Aug., 1908, when on account of illness he was forced to retire. Graduate Yale Medical College, New Haven, 1855. Consulting Surgeon and Physician, Waterbury (Conn.) Hospital for many years. Resides at Watertown, "spending his declining years in quiet comfort."

"When he first came to Watertown, he lived for a time in the old tavern which stood at the foot of Academy hill. A little later he removed to the small white house known as the 'Beers Place' about half way up the hill, which was his home for many years, and is still identified with him in the minds of many Watertown folk. Here he had his home and his office; here his son grew up from infancy to young manhood; and here some of his busiest years were spent, for it was not until within the past twenty years or so, that he purchased the house in which he now resides. In this latter home he celebrated his golden wedding anniversary, and here Mrs. Munger died one year later.

"Probably no physician of late years has presided at the arrival of more additions to the population of the town than did Dr. Munger. On one occasion he was the attending physician when a sixth son was added to a Watertown family. The boy next older triumphantly announced 'We've got a new baby at our house and his name's Dr. Munger.'

"During all the years of his residence in Watertown he has been a member of the Congregational church, and in former years took an active part in its affairs. He also took great interest in the educational affairs of the town, and now watches the progress of school work as much as ever, contrasting with humorous comment modern ways with those of his young manhood when he himself was a teacher in a New Jersey school. In addition to his medical duties, he found time to attend to those of school committeeman, and often visited the schools in that capacity. He also examined many aspirants for teacher's position, and his jokes on such occasions are well remembered.

"Dr. Munger is well known and generally liked by his fellow townsmen."

Jonas Fiant was of German extraction. He and his wife were members of the German Baptist church (Brethren or Dunkards) whose aim was the primitive simplicity of the Apostolic church. They enjoin plainness in dress; settle their difficulties among themselves; affirm instead of taking an oath, and for more than 100 years have had a rule against the manufacture, sale and use of intoxicants.

"Aunt Polly" in her old age said: "I have never known any name than Polly: that is my name, and I was always called Polly."

Louis C. Munger "was a farmer and merchant. At the age of 15 yrs. enlisted in Col. Nugent's 2d Battalion of Mo., for six months service. Battalion captured, then disbanded. Again enlisted in 9th Kans. Vol. Cavalry, company "D," under Capt. Coleman, Mar. 11, 1863. Served until June 27, 1865. Disabled by service, which disability was the cause of his death in after years.

"Shortly after the close of the war, settled on a farm northwest of Iola, where he lived for some 16 years. Was largely instrumental in the building of the Liberty Church (Presbyterian), which was built on land donated by him. Was in business at McPherson, Kans., for one year, after which he engaged in business at Iola for a number of years. Retired in 1898. Elder in 1st Presbyterian church at Iola, for many years until his death. He took a deep interest in politics, but did not aspire to office; he did, however, serve a few terms as Councilman, and as Alderman. He served southeastern Kansas Presbyterians as delegate to their National Assembly at Des Moines, Ia., in 1904."

Were farmers living in East Milton, in a district locally known as "Hard-scrabble." In the ride from Milton, the application of the name was demonstrated. It was up, up; always up, and in some places the road passed over ledges of solid rock, where the ears of our horses were on an angle of 40 degrees above the hands that held the reins. But when the summit was reached a scene magnificent was opened to view. To the west lay the fertile valley we had left, and beyond, Champlain shimmered in the afternoon sun, and the purple mountains of the "Old North Woods" rolled range on range, until they were lost in the mist of distance. From the summit we descended the east side of the mountain we had climbed, into a small cultivated valley, lying still and peaceful among the surrounding hills. Here was their home—a home of piety and content.

"Hon. Orrin W. Munger died at his home in St. Johns, Mich., Saturday, Aug. 26, 1911." He was left fatherless at a very early age, living with his widowed mother in Huron County until about thirteen years of age, when he went to Cleveland, O., where he secured a position as clerk in a hardware store. "The hardware business was not to his liking and he secured a situation in a dry goods store. After an apprenticeship of five years, he felt himself competent to manage a business for himself, and went into business with his brother. Realizing that they must avoid the older centers of trade where capital and competition would be likely to hinder their progress, they looked west for a situation and finally located in what was then the little woody town of St. Johns. This was in April, 1857. From that time hence Mr. Munger has been identified with the growth of the city. After three years, Mr. Munger purchased his brother's interest. All went well until April, 1861, when fire swept away both store and goods. He rebuilt and started anew, and success attended his efforts."

"Mr. Munger held many places of responsibility; during the Rebellion he was U. S. Assessor for the first division of the 6th District of Mich., a position he resigned to go to the Legislature in 1864. In 1865 was instrumental in organizing the First National Bank of St. Johns. This was the first regularly organized bank in Clinton Co. In 1885 helped to organize the State Bank, and was made its first president." (Clinton Republican, in part.)

Roger S. Munger removed with his parents to New Haven, where he passed his boyhood days. He completed a course at Hopkins Grammar School, preparatory to entering Yale. He did not take up his college course, however, but engaged in business at the age of 21 years. Removing from New Haven to Iowa, he passed one year in that State, and in 1857 located at St. Paul, Minn. In 1869 removed to Duluth, and seeing here the city of opportunity, made it his home and the center of his business operations continuously from that date.

Mr. Munger might truly be called "The Grand Old Man" of Duluth. He gave the best of his years to the upbuilding of the "Zenith City," a place which forty years ago was a mere infant in swaddling clothes. Faithfully and well he watched over her welfare, as a village of a dozen families grew to be a town, developed into a thriving city and leading port, an industrial and railroad center, and the coming metropolis of the Great Northwest.

7th Gen.

The first sawmills in Duluth were erected by Mr. Munger. His saws cut the lumber for the first houses which were built in the growing village, many of which are still landmarks in the city. The imprint of Mr. Munger's guiding hand is to be found from one end of Duluth to the other. The great grain elevators through which pass annually the millions of bushels of grain from the vast Western prairies, were first established by him. He and his associates built and operated the first flour mill, the "Imperial," with a capacity of 6,000 barrels daily. The building of this mill marked the beginning of the flour-making industry at the head of the lakes.

When the Northern Pacific was being run westward, Mr. Munger increased the capacity of his sawmills and supplied the road with its timber and ties. He built the first hundred houses in Bismarck, N. D., and erected the Government buildings on the Standing Rock reservation. The first of the great modern coal docks which line the harbor were built by him, and he was largely instrumental in procuring the capital which brought the Duluth Iron and Steel Co. to that city. In "Munger's Terrace" he built apartment houses of so good style that they have been pointed out as models, by leading architects, of what such houses may be.

Mr. Munger was one of the oldest pioneers of Minnesota, coming to this state in his early manhood. He was in truth a builder of a city—but he was also a builder of character, and his personal influence goes side by side with the material evidence of his foresight and effort. (Duluth Herald, in part.)

Moved from "Opening Hill," No. Madison, Conn., to New Haven, where he received his education. In 1857, removed to St. Paul, Minn., where he lived for many years. First engaged in commission business, after which he opened a music store. He was a musician, a leader of the "Old Gent's" and "Great Western" bands, the latter for seven years. Built an opera house, of which he was manager for some years. Built a grain elevator at Duluth, which was destroyed by fire in 1880. After this misfortune, resumed his music business, and from that time engaged in his favorite profession.

He was a gentleman and a man of fine abilities, and of good physical development. A man straightforward and honorable, also public spirited, as his many acts demonstrated. (St. Paul Despatch.)

Gilbert Davis Munger was an artist of repute. "A painting of Niagara Falls first made him world famous, and was ordered by the Prussian Government. His paintings of Venice were exhibited in London on the entreaty of Ruskin. The reigning Duke of Saxe Coburg Gotha conferred on him Knighthood, with the title of Baron." Received other honors at the hands of Royalty. A magazine article says: "These honors cannot be secured by influence, but are awarded on merit alone." The London Times once said, "We shall not quarrel with those who prefer the delicate 'Greville' by Millet, or the peaceful evening scene 'Near Barbezon' by Gilbert Munger." Lived for many years in Paris, but during the Civil War served his country in the Engineering Department of the Government at Washington. He has been styled "Poet, Painter, Patriot." A number of his paintings are to be seen at Guilford, Conn. Mr. Munger was unmarried.

Thomas C. Munger comes of old New England stock; his grandfather, Hervey Munger, was born in Middlebury, Vt., son of Jonathan Munger of Norfolk, Conn., from thence to Middlebury, and later to Montgomery Co., Ohio.

"Thomas C. resided in Ohio until 16 years of age when he removed with his parents to New Sheron, Iowa, where he attended the public schools. Afterwards attended a preparatory school located at Nebraska City, and called Nebraska college, during the years 1879-80. He then became a student at Iowa college at Grinnell for two years. The year following he was a student at the Union college of law at Chicago, whence he came to Nebraska, and was admitted to the bar at Lincoln, Mar. 5, 1885. He practiced law in Benkelman for less than a year, when he was appointed county attorney, and then removed to Lincoln where he now resides. He was elected a member of the legislature from Lancaster in 1894, and was chairman of the judiciary committee in the house. In 1896 was chosen attorney of Lancaster county, and served four years.

"One of the things accomplished during his term was the breaking up of public gambling which had up to that time been common in the city of Lincoln. A grand jury was called and many indictments against the gamblers returned. Two were sentenced to the penitentiary, others were given long jail sentences, and the rest driven from the city. The old public resorts for gambling were closed, and have never since been opened.

"His industry amounts to a talent. When he was county attorney he made a record of official diligence that is not often equalled. In his practice he is known as a 'digger,' always going to the bottom of a case, and preparing all of his evidence and papers with painstaking care.

8th Gen.

"In 1907 Mr. Munger was appointed Federal Judge for the District of Nebraska by Pres't Roosevelt. The only opposition to the selection of Mr. Munger came from Omaha, and included political opponents and corporation attorneys whom he had defeated.

"Mr. Munger's private life is beyond reproach. He has a comfortable home, and delightful family. He is a member of the First Presbyterian church. The use of tobacco and other stimulants has not been added to his accomplishments. He is of slight build, with quick bodily movements to match a sharp, incisive mind. In politics and in all his private affairs, he figures a long way ahead, and is criticised for caution more than any other quality in politics. His keen wit and active and enquiring mind make him a pleasant companion, especially on hunting and fishing trips, which constitute his favorite recreation.

"For several years Mr. Munger has been growing steadily in sympathy with the progressive element of the Republican party, and for some time has been outspoken against railroad domination of politics, and against the free pass. A considerable amount of his large practice has been in cases against the railroads.

"Members of the bar are satisfied that Mr. Munger will make a hard-working as well as a conscientious and fairminded judge. He has the knack of looking after details and expediting business to an unusual degree." (State Journal, Feb., 1907.)

"George Munger, on his 21st birthday, entered partnership with S. C. Chittenden of East River, in the manufacture of doors, sash, and blinds, continuing ten years, when he removed to New Haven, forming partnership with J. E. P. Dean (Dean and Munger), manufacturing slates, globes, and other school apparatus. This partnership dissolved in 1865, when he entered the firm of J. W. Schermerhorn and Co. of New York City, as partner, with factory at Guilford. In 1876, the firm became financially involved, and discontinued. In March, 1877, built factory at East River, admitting his son as partner, manufacturing a general line of school supplies, which partnership continued until his death in 1903, at which time he was thought to have been the oldest man in this line of business.

"Invented and patented various articles, among which are the veneer strawberry basket now in common use, and the method of dove-tailing together, wood and iron as now universally used in school desks.

"He was greatly interested in the cause of education, and served on the local Board of Education for many years, much of the time as Sec'y or Chairman.

"He was a regular attendant of the Congregational Church at Madison, and though not a member, contributed liberally to its support. In his social as well as in his business relations, he enjoyed the confidence of all who knew him, to an unusual degree."

George A. Munger

Born in Bergen, N. Y., May 24, 1849. Died in Camden, N. J., March 30, 1909.

George A. Munger lived in Bergen until 1878. In 1879 he established the lumber firm of George A. Munger & Bro. About 1880 he started a planing mill in Camden. Later he purchased half interest in the J. B. VanSciver Co.'s furniture store and later he established the department store of Munger & Long.

He was very active in the First Presbyterian Church. His hobbies were mainly his two sons, and his relics. The collection of the latter at his death being very valuable and highly prized. His death followed a stroke of apoplexy.

CHAUNCEY WILSON MUNGER

Born in Clarendon, N. Y., June 23, 1850. Died in Asheville, N. C., July 3, 1912.

"Mr. Munger was unobtrusive in his works of mercy and in his labors of love. He delighted to give and did it with a bountiful hand, but seldom let his left hand know what his right hand bestowed. But it is in what he was that he lives most—clean, pure, guileless, firm, decisive, a heart of tenderest love. This made him the father he was in his home, the neighbor he was in his community, the servant of God in his church, the patriotic citizen in his state. We lay him to rest to-day without a blot on the escutcheon of his fair name. Loved by all, and mourned by thousands."—From "An Affectionate Appreciation of Chauncey W. Munger," by Rev. J. B. Hurley.

Records in possession of descendants of his son Joseph state that this son was born in Hampton, Conn., Records at Northampton, Mass., bearing date of 1725, mention him as "Samuel Munger, now of Brimfield." An old deed bearing the above date shows that he sold to Robert Moulton, "part of a tract of meadow and swamp land, lying at a place called 'Munger's Meadow.'" "The original Munger place was east of the 'South Meadow' in (what is now) Wales." (Annals of the church in Brimfield.)

The exact time of his settlement in Brimfield is unknown. He was here contemporaneous with John Bullen, who "Lived on the way from the 'South Pond' to the 'South Meadow,'" their farms adjoining. He was among those who first received grants of land from the "General Court," his holdings comprising a considerable portion of territory in the south part of the now town of Wales. The site of what we believe to have been his habitation is on the southwest slope of Rattlesnake Mountain, overlooking the "meadow." A few foundation stones, an old grape vine, lilac bushes, briars and weeds now mark the spot. (See Nathaniel Munger, No. 14, 4th Gen.)

The early settlers were not secure in their original grants. Efforts were made by interested parties in Boston to annul these grants, and to oust the occupants of the lands from their holdings. Frequent petitions were sent to the "Great and General Court" for relief from these conditions. A petition to the "General Court" signed by John Stebbins and others, "To be quieted in their grants" was sent to that body Feb. —, 1730. Sept. 9, 1730, a committee on this petition returned an itemized report to His Excellency Jonathan Belcher, Esq., Gov: Gen: In this report is found the following: "8thly—one 40 acre Lott to Samuel Munger." On petition to the "General Court" that body, June 8, 1731, confirmed the title to the occupants of the land granted by the original committee. By this act, it was decreed "That there be allowed and confirmed unto Samuel Munger, a home lott of Sixty acres in the place they have been laid out and if more land contained in the Home lott than Sixty acres, he shall hold the same, but surplis to be accounted for a part of his after rights or division." In 1732, in a drawing for lots, Samuel Munger drew lot No. 54. This lot was situated "Under the E. side of Mt. Pisgah, so called."

The family were evidently of that persuasion called Anabaptists, which sect were not in favor with the "Standing order" (Congregational). This may have been the primary cause of the removal from Guilford. ("The same spirit of intolerance from which the Puritan had come to America to escape, was exercised by them against the Quaker and Anabaptist.") In Brimfield they found congenial religious associates. "Some of the settlers did not adhere to the 'Standing order'; those in that part of Brimfield now called Wales, were from the very first of a different religious persuasion. Nov. 22, 1734, the following persons 'Signed off' from the parish.":

"We whose names are Under-written, Do own and Acknowledge Ourselves to Be of that persuasion commonly called Anabaptist:

"Nathaniel Munger, Dorothy Munger, Ehathan Munger, Robert Moulton, Ebenezer Moulton, Anthony Needham, Humphrey Needham, John Bullen, John Bullen, Jr., Thomas Green, Thomas Green, Jr." (Annals of the church.)

Gardner says the Needhams and Mungers were from Salem. This statement may be true as regards the Needhams, but as applied to the Mungers is utterly without foundation. That Samuel and his wife, Dorothy, were from Guilford, Conn., seems proven by the recording of the birth of three of their children in that town. Further evidence which proves him identical with Samuel, son of Samuel and Sarah (Hand) Munger, is here added: "Samuel Munger of Brimfield, in the county of Hampshire, in the Province of Massachusetts Bay," in 1726, "Sold to Joseph Munger of the East Parish of Guilford, interest in his father's estate." "Samuel Munger of Brimfield, in the county of Hampshire, within his Majesty's Province of Massachusetts Bay in New England," Mar. 26, 1726, sold land "To his brother James Munger of Guilford."

No record has been found of the death of Samuel Munger or that of his wife, Dorothy. The first burial place in the south part of the town was laid out in 1732, but has long been abandoned, and the site is now plowed

Of these five children, only one (Billy) is found recorded in Guilford records. We get the date of birth of Philip from descendants at Bemis Heights and Saratoga Springs, N. Y. Billy located at Salisbury, then on the border between New York and Connecticut, and in the wilderness. Philip is said to have "marched from Cornwall" in service in French and Indian War, and later living at Stillwater, N. Y., as early as 1775.

Joseph Munger was a cordwainer, and lived in the East Parish of Guilford. A deed bearing date of 1740 gives his place of residence as Guilford. Witness to will of Josiah Arnold of Haddam, 15th June, 1733. It is said he moved to Killingworth, Conn. No record of his death is found here or at Guilford. Probably moved West with one of his sons.

Descendants of Billy removed to Middlebury, Vt., and from thence to Clymer, N. Y. People whom we believed descended from Increase were at Stillwater, N. Y., and from thence to Greece, Monroe Co., and later into Pennsylvania. Descendants of Abner were at Stillwater, and Sangersfield, N. Y.; from thence to Vermont, and in the following generation, to Clymer. Philip and his descendants were at Stillwater, Saratoga Springs, and Schaghticoke, N. Y., and in following generations were at Jamestown, and Caleb Woodworth and his wife, Jane Munger, with several children removed to Salisbury, Conn., in 1738, and was the first white man with a family to settle in the vicinity of Ore Hill, near the New York line. Jane was one of the first members of the Salisbury church, and ninth on the list in 1744, being received by letter from Lebanon, Conn. Caleb was tything-man (1744), Freeman (1744), Surveyor of roads (1753), Grand Juror.

His house was the headquarters of General Gates during the fight with Burgoyne. A man of means and influence. Had ten children. His youngest daughter, Mary, married Dr. Ephraim Child, of Stillwater, in 1796, who was a surgeon in the War of 1812; a founder of Saratoga Medical Society. Their children were: Orville W. and Hon. Noadiah M. of Syracuse, N. Y.

The Brimfield Mungers.

Absalom Gardner, Esq., in his "Wales Centennial Address" mentions four Munger brothers as being among the early settlers in territory now the town of Wales, Mass. They were: Samuel, Nathaniel, Elnathan and Joseph Munger.

Wales was originally a part of the older town of Brimfield, and had no corporate existence until 1828. "Brimfield was originally a part of the Springfield Plantation, and was set off from that town in 1701." At this time it comprised territory now the towns of Monson, Holland and Wales, as well as that portion which still bears the name.

In 1760 the west half of Brimfield was set off as the District of Monson. In 1762, the south part of Brimfield was incorporated into the District of South Brimfield. This district was divided into two sections, called East Parish, and West Parish. These parishes continued as a single municipality for twenty-one years—until 1783. By mutual agreement the parishes separated. This separation was authoritatively consummated by act of the State Legislature of that year, when the East Parish was set off and incorporated as the district of Holland. The West Parish continued as such until 1828, when it was voted in town meeting to incorporate as the town of Wales, in honor of James L. Wales, who had bequeathed a considerable sum to the town.

In the records of the Brimfield Mungers, so called, in the following pages, all births, marriages, and deaths, previous to 1762, are recorded as having occurred in Brimfield; after this date, in the West Parish, now Wales, Mass. Since 1828, no births or marriages, and but few deaths, are recorded here among persons bearing the name.

Of the four Munger brothers, original settlers in the territory of Wales, not one is known to be buried within the limits of the town. Samuel's burial place is unknown. Nathaniel was "Buried somewhere on his farm, southward of his old habitation." The writer has located the spot, but it is outside of the limits of the town of Wales, and within the town of Holland. Elnathan doubtless fills a soldier's grave, as Revolutionary records say of him: "Reported died in Northern Army, Oct. 5, 1777." Joseph lies buried in the cemetery at Waterville, N. Y., to which place his remains, with those of his wife, Naomi, were lately removed from their original burial place on Hanover Green, in the (then) town of Paris.

Gardner says of Samuel Munger: "Came to this town (Brimfield) in the years of his adolescence. He settled, lived, and died on land which in after years was known as the 'Arba Squier Place.' Upon this place he was the first clearer of its acres, and subduer of its wilderness; planter and sower of its fields: hoer, mower, reaper and harvester of its crops, not produced in great exuberancy." This farm is situated in the west part of the town of Wales, Mass., on the "Back road," near the Monson line. Among the outbuildings on this farm is a small building, evidently once used as a dwelling, which is painted in the old style—red, with white trimmings, and is yet in a fair state of preservation. The present owner of the place occupies a more recently built and larger dwelling on the opposite side of the road.

Samuel Munger was selectman of So. Brimfield in 1766, and "Deacon in the Baptist church for many years. He left an unstained moral and religious record."

The following from an old deed: "Samuel Munger, For divers good causes and considerations, me thereunto moving, but more especially for the love, good will and affection I bear to my son Samuel Junior," deeded to this son a piece of land, "Portions of which belong to the original grant to Samuel Munger." Nathaniel Munger came to Brimfield with his parents when a lad approaching his teens, the family living at the southeasterly part of what is now the town of Wales, the "home lot" of his father bordering on the "South Meadow." After marriage occupied in part the dwelling of his father, later, as his family increased, building a new house for his occupancy. This "new house" was evidently so called, long after it had ceased to be such in fact, in distinction from the original dwelling—his "old habitation," erected by his father, Samuel. A deed bearing date of 1797 (three years before his death) describes land sold as "lying in Holland, southeasterly from Nathaniel Munger's 'new house.'"

Absalom Gardner, Esq., in his "Wales Centennial Address," delivered in 1862, says of him: "He settled, lived, died and was buried upon what in colloquial phrase we now denominate the Coburn Farm. He died—no record telleth when: but sometime in the last decade of the 18th century. Pity that none of his posterity had the filial regard or gratitude to rear at his grave a simple granite or marble slab to indicate his place of burial, his age, and the date of his demise."

Gardner further says: "He was buried two furlongs southward of his 'old habitation.' This house stood one mile north of the Connecticut line, and on the line of division (?) between the towns of Holland and Wales. A man of untarnished character; settled on land which he cleared with his own hand." He

"Felled the ungracious oak: with rugged toil
Dragged from the soil the thrice gnarled roots and stubborn rocks;
With plenty filled the haggard mountain side,
And when his work was done, without memorial—died.
No form of bronze and no memorial stones
Show me the place where lie his mouldering bones."

Nathaniel Munger was one of twelve men of the "District of So. Brimfield, appointed Sept. 5, 1774, as a court of Justice and Honor, to judge and determine all controversies that may hereafter arise in said District." Was deacon of the Baptist church for many years.

Graves on the "Coburn Farm"

4th Gen.

Nathaniel Munger, in a list sworn to Feb. 1, 1748, of men impressed at Brimfield for the defence of the Western Frontiers on the alarm of June, 1747, is credited with eight days' service as a Centinel under Ensign James Merrick. His name also appears in a list endorsed in 1756 as men belonging to Col. John Worthington's (So. Hampshire Co.) regiment, who had been employed in the country's service during the previous two years, he being reported as a member of Captain Mirick's company.

The Coburn Farm.

I have seen what I believe to be the "Original Munger Place." Was in Monson recently, and mine host, with whom I had talked concerning the matter, very generously took me many miles in quest of this spot. After some unsuccessful attempts to locate the site of the "Coburn Farm," we were directed to the home of an old man* nearly ninety years of age, who was born here, as was his father and grandfather before him. On learning my name he said: "Why, the Mungers were the first settlers in this town" (Wales). He directed us to the ruined buildings on the "Coburn Farm," which are, as the record says, east of the South Meadow, the farm lands lying partly in the town of Wales and partly in Holland.

The original Munger place shows only a few foundation stones, with brush and briars and neglected apple trees growing about. A little to the north lie the ruins of another foundation, presenting much the same appearance as the first, but giving evidence that it must have been a much larger building. Still farther north is what appears to be the site of a barn and barnyard, which is on the crest of the hill as it begins to descend toward the north. Both these houses stood on the west side of the present road, on the slope of the hill facing southwest, and gradually descending to the meadow land below.

This meadow lies between the hills, and has a brook flowing through it. Old records frequently refer to this section as the "South Meadow" and "Munger's Meadow." This part of Wales is now known as the "Meadow District." The ruins are situated about one mile from the Connecticut line, the flag of the United States survey, which marks the boundary line, being seen to the south. The meadow has something of a crescent form, and the lower end of it and the brook is crossed as one ascends the hill to the ruins. Where these buildings once stood is a sightly place and in the afternoon a sunny spot. It is believed that the first or smaller ruins marks the spot where Samuel Munger built his habitation, and where Samuel, Nathaniel, Elnathan and Joseph, with their sisters, first had a home in Brimfield. The other ruin, without doubt, marks the sight of Nathaniel Munger's "new" house, later the dwelling of the Coburn family.

The day being far spent, I did not have time to locate the burial place of Nathaniel, which Gardner says is "Eighty rods southward of his old habitation," but what I have found, corroborates what Gardner has said concerning Nathaniel Munger and the Coburn farm, and I believe I shall yet find his place of burial "Somewhere on his farm." (From a letter to J. E. Munger, by J. B. Munger, Oct., 1908.)

THE GRAVES ON THE COBURN FARM.

I have found the Munger graves on the Coburn farm. My search for this farm in the fall of 1908 seems to have awakened considerable interest among certain ones in Monson and Wales. Mr. Edgar Squier of Monson, an enthusiastic historian in matters pertaining to his home town, and towns adjoining, and who had accompanied me on my first visit, in conversation with Mr. LeRoy Needham of Wales, mentioned our search for the Coburn farm, and my belief that somewhere on this farm might be found Munger graves. In answer to this Mr. Needham said that many years ago, while hunting on this farm he had accidentally discovered three graves, one of which had a headstone on which was cut the letters E. M. This information was communicated to me by Mr. Squier, when preparation was again made to visit the Coburn farm. October 31, I started on an early car for Monson, having previously advised Mr. Squier of my intention. Arriving at the home of Mr. Squier, we took team and drove to Wales, where we were joined by Mr. Needham, who had volunteered to act as guide in our search for the graves. In the course of time we arrived at the site of Nathaniel Munger's "Old Habitation." As our guide had run onto the graves some twenty years before, he confessed he did not know just where they were, but said they were "Somewhere in there," motioning toward the woods on the mountain side. We went through weeds and underbrush and briars, all the time getting farther up the mountain side, although the ascent was very gradual. After going the full two furlongs, our guide stopped, saying: "They ought to be somewhere about here," then said he would go a little up. I did not follow, but continued my search in the underbrush near me, Mr. Squier doing the same on my right. Soon we heard Mr. Needham call: "Here they are!" Yes, here were the graves; not only three but several others, all of which with the exception of two, were without any mark to indicate who was buried there. Stones were at head and foot of each grave, but some were displaced, others fallen and partially buried in the ground, but all showing that they had originally been laid out in line at nearly equal distance apart. It is an old time burial place, such as our pioneer forefathers knew.

One of the best preserved graves is that which I am convinced is where Elizabeth (Bullen), wife of Nathaniel, is buried. At the head and foot is a rudely cut flat stone on both of which is cut in large characters, evidently by an unskilled hand, the letters E. M. These letters are as unscarred and legible as if cut a week ago, and show no signs of the wear of the elements after 122 years of exposure. On each side of this grave a flat stone has been imbedded on edge in the earth nearly level with the surface. On either side of this grave are others, one of which is doubtless that of Nathaniel; the other may be that of his second wife, Fear (Shaw). Doubtless the last Munger residents on the farm knew the name of the occupant of the several graves, but the knowledge died with them.

Further on we came to a grave, on the headstone of which was cut the following inscription: "Mrss Mary wife of James Mercy, died April 3, 1802, aged 28 years." For a time I was at a loss to account for the presence of the Mercy (Marcy) grave at this place if this was the burial place of Nathaniel and Elizabeth (Bullen) and Fear (Shaw) Munger. Might not the E. M. on the other and larger headstone indicate that a member of the Mercy family was buried there? For a time I was in doubt, but not for long as facts warranted the belief that this was the burial place of which Gardner speaks. Later I remembered that Samuel Munger married "Dolly" Marcy, and had a daughter Mary, b. Mar. 22, 1774, who was doubtless the wife of James Mercy (Marcy). The date of her death, and the age at which she died, seem to sustain this assumption. I mentioned this fact to Mr. Needham, who said: "These are doubtless your Munger graves."

Gardner says of Nathaniel Munger: "He settled, lived, died and was buried, on what in colloquial phrase, we denominate the Coburn Farm." Again he says: "Buried 80 rods southward of his old habitation." The first statement is true; the second might mean south, southeast, or southwest. The fact is, the graves are south by east of the old house, and on much higher ground on the slope of Rattlesnake mountain, fully one-quarter mile from his old habitation, and in the town of Holland.

While descending the mountain, Mr. Needham searched for, but did not find, a ledge at the foot of which is a chestnut tree much bowed over, which deformity tradition says was caused by one of the Coburns having hung himself from it when it was only a sapling. Making all preparations for this act, he jumped from the ledge, the weight of his body bending the young tree toward the earth, from which position it never recovered.

"We will go and see Sam. Perry," said Mr. Needham. This we did and had a rare half hour. We asked him about the graves on the Coburn farm; he said: "None there." We said yes; as we had seen them not an hour before. Mr. Needham mentioned the "Mrss Mary Mercy" grave; the old gentleman said: "James Marcy used to live right over there," indicating by a gesture, the old county road, near by. He then added: "The Marcys came from Woodstock." I asked him who the Coburns bought the place of; he promptly replied: "of the Mungers," and added: "Old ———— Coburn hung himself up in the woods." Mr. Needham looked at me and said: "I guess, Mr. Munger, you are right in all you claim."

James Marcy lived down the road from the Munger place. His wife, Mary, being a Munger, was buried in the Munger lot. This accounts for the presence of her grave there. (From a letter to J. E. Munger, from J. B. Munger, Nov., 1909.)

Gardner says Elnathan Munger "Came here (Brimfield) when a boy in his 'teens." This is a doubtful statement, as records show that his father, Samuel, was located in the southeast part of what is now the town of Wales, as early as 1725, living "East of the South Meadow." Elnathan was probably not over ten or eleven years of age when he came to the "South Meadow," with his father.

In 1742, bought in So. Brimfield, "Land lying on the westerly side of the road that leadeth to Stafford, being part of the original grant to Samuel Munger." Dec. 15, 1746, sold to Anthony Needham, "A parcel of land west of and Joyning the Highway that goeth from ye South Pond toward Stafford, being a lot of Grant land originally laid out to Samuel Munger."

He lived west from the central village, on a farm later known as "The Stebbins Place," located on what is now known as the "Back road." Gardner says he "Lived on land which he cleared and made fertile. Was the first man to grapple with the forest of towering oak, chestnut, ash and maple trees, with a much worse underbrush of hazel and alder."

In old records he is variously styled, yeoman, weaver, cordwainer, and housewright. Farming, and following the business of a housewright, seem to have been his chief occupations. There was once in possession of descendants of his son, Dea. Daniel Munger of Agawam, Mass., a steel square marked "E. M." with a punch, but it has now become lost.

4th Gen.

"Elnathan Munger served in the French and Indian War, in a company of foot, Cap't William Williams, commanding, for the reduction of Canada, in 1758." "This company consisted of an even hundred men, including officers. Of this number fifty were from Brimfield, the remaining fifty being divided between the towns of Springfield, Palmer, and Sheffield." (History of Palmer.)

Also served in the Revolution. The following is an official record of his service:

"Elnathan Munger of So. Brimfield, private in Cap't Ames Walbridge's company, Col. David Brewer's 9th regt., muster rolls dated Aug. 1, 1775; enlisted May 12, 1775, service 2 months, 3 weeks and 3 days." "Also in Cap't Ames Walbridge's company, Col. Rufus Putnam's regt. (late Brewer's), order for bounty coat or its equivalent in money, dated Roxbury, Nov. 4, 1775." Took part in the battle of Bunker Hill, and the siege of Boston.

Also, "Private in Capt. Caleb Keep's company, Col. William Shepard's reg't. Residence, So. Brimfield; enlisted for 8 months. Mustered by State and Continental Muster Masters. Reported died, Oct. 5, 1777." (Annals of the early church.)

Descendants of Elnathan in the 7th generation have the following tradition concerning his death:

"Being sick with camp fever, he obtained a furlough and started for home. At Greenbush opposite Albany he met a farmer with a yoke of oxen and a cart, asked and obtained permission to ride. The farmer, learning he had camp fever became frightened and tipped up his cart, dumping him beside the road, and hastened away, leaving the poor soldier to die alone."

Most families have stories or traditions concerning the strength and prowess of some remote forbear. The following is told of Elnathan:

At a "raising" of which he had charge, a certain heavy timber was wanted quickly. It lay some distance away and he sent two men of ordinary strength to bring it. They went, but not returning as quickly as the "Boss" thought they should, he investigated and found that these men could not bring it, being hardly able to lift one end. With words scarcely complimentary to their strength, he told them to lift one end of the timber, which they did with his assistance, until he could get his shoulder under it. When this was accomplished, he walked forward until the timber balanced on his shoulder when, with rapid strides he carried it to the waiting workmen, who soon put it into place.

A similar story is handed down from generations contemporary with Elnathan, but no name is given as to who this "strong man" was.

This would indicate that Joseph was one of the very earliest settlers in the town of Ludlow. Later records show that without doubt he lived in the northwest part of the town at this time.

It is believed that there were other children born to Joseph and Jemima, previous to the birth of Asa. In a letter written several years ago, Mrs. Dinah E. (Munger) Sprague, then of Cleveland, O., made the following statement: "There was a Lucy Munger, who married Joseph Blodgett, first Town Clerk (of So. Brimfield), and she was half-sister to my grand-father Nathan [2d child, below]. There was also an aunt Keziah and Prudence Munger."*

After the death of his wife Jemima in 1754, Joseph returned to Brimfield, from which town he enlisted in 1755, in an expedition to Crown Point. On his return, he m. Naomi Needham, June 2, 1756. Joseph Munger came to Brimfield with his parents when a small boy. He first bought land in that town 20th Nov., 1745. This land was purchased of his brother, "Elnathan Munger, house-wright," and was "Part of ye division lott surveyed and laid out in ye southerly part of ye town, and lyeth at ye southerly End of Munger's home lott on ye easterly side of ye highway; and ten acres more lying on ye south end of Sam[ll] Munger's home lott."

After his second marriage he settled in the south part of the town, the farm which he occupied becoming afterwards known as the "Julius M. Lyon Place." Here he lived until about 1783, when he again moved to Ludlow as shown by the following: "I, Joseph Munger of Ludlow, sold land in Brimfield to Elijah Coddington, lying on the westerly side of the road leading to Stafford, beginning on said road between my dwelling house and Archelaus Brown's at north east corner of land I lately sold to Solomon Hovey and Archelaus Brown." A "Parish Record," found in the office of the Town Clerk at Ludlow, Mass., states that "Joseph Munger lived at Ludlow City, where the Jewett house now stands. He had a grist mill on that stream." Also: "In town meeting Mar. 2, 1789, voted: That the selectmen be authorized to agree with Mr. Munger for a road across his mill dam, if it can be done on reasonable terms."

In 1794, he leased his mill privilege to one David Carver. Text of the lease follows: "Joseph Munger of Ludlow, let, lease, and devise unto David Carver of Hebron, Tolland Co., Conn., yeoman, the dam where-on the Mill which I have this day sold to the said Carver, stands, together with as much ground as is necessary for the use and benefit of said mill, being a Grist Mill, together with the privilege of mending the dam from time to-time and at all times, providing however that the said Carver shall not at any time keep up any pond above said dam, from and after the first day of May, until the first day of Sept' in each year; and further-more, this lease is to continue to him and his assigns for the term of nine hundred years from the date thereof. Joseph Munger, Sr., sold to Joseph Munger, Jr. (both of Ludlow), land in said Ludlow, in 1789—1793—1796.

Joseph Munger was selectman of So. Brimfield in 1776. Grand Juror from So. Brimfield to Northampton, Aug. and Nov., 1767; Mar. and May, 1768, and Aug., 1770. About 1796, removed to Paris, Oneida Co., N. Y., with his son Reuben, "who was one of the early settlers at Peck's Corners." Joseph is said to have lived at the foot of the Socrates Eastman hill, subsequently, however, becoming a member of the household of his son Reuben, with whom he passed his last years, and where he died.

We have the following from Mrs. Peck's "History of the Hanover Society," kindly furnished by Mr. C. A. Munger of New York City. "The old lady on the hill was a lively, sociable body, and the Corners ladies dearly loved to go and see her. But she was also very precise and most guarded in her speech, carefully avoiding exaggeration or misstatement. She was told that ———— had a new baby, which was doubtless the smallest ever known. 'Oh I don't know about that,' said she, 'when I was born they put me in a silver tankard, and shut the lid.' 'And did you live?' asked her astonished interlocutor. 'They say I lived, and grew nicely,' carefully admitted this cautious dame.

"One of the earliest reminiscences of funeral sermonizing was the discourse on the occasion of Grandmother (Naomi) Munger's death on Munger hill. Elder ————, who was tediously prosy—more of an exhorter than preacher—always felt it encumbent upon him to address at length, even to the children. He used upon occasion a tremolo voice, which was particularly lugubrious. 'Children,' he said, turning a most solemn visage upon the little row of grand-children, 'a little while ago your grandfather died, and now your granny's dead, and if you live-long-enough-you'll all die!' It was a comforting assurance, for in the midst of their weeping, the little folks smiled.

"Gardner states that Joseph and all his children went to Vermont. This is an error. His son Nathan settled in what is now Lewis Co., at "Munger's Mills," now Copenhagen, N. Y. Joseph went from Ludlow, Mass., to Paris, Oneida Co., N. Y. Elijah also moved to Paris after his graduation from Yale college, subsequently, however, settling at Sackett's Harbor, N. Y. Reuben went to Paris, as shown above, living there until 1826, when he moved to Chautauqua Co. Perley, an M.D., practiced his profession in Ludlow, Mass., until the death of his wife, Susanna, in 1805, when he also moved to Paris, probably being accompanied by his only son, Ely Fuller.

"I append the following deed as further and positive evidence of the error of Gardner's statement. This deed was probably one of the last legal acts of Joseph and Naomi.

" 'Joseph Munger, of Paris, County of Oneida, state of New York, for £100 N. E. currency, sold to David Cook of Partridgefield, county of Berkshire, and state of Mass. a certain tract of land lying in Ludlow in the county of Hampshire, and state of Massachusetts, be the same more or less, bounded as follows (viz) beginning at Granby line thence running about four rods to the Bank of the Brook on the west side of the road leading from Pliny Chapin's to Joseph Munger's horse shed, thence from the West side of the horse shed to the southwest end of the Goldsmith's Shop, thence running about two rods from thence Westerly to the East end of the Mill dam, from thence on the East side of the pond at high water mark to the

Joseph Munger served in the French and Indian War as "Serg't in Cap't Ebenezer Moulton's company, Col. Pomeroy's reg't in an expedition to Crown Point, from Sept. 11 to Dec. 25, 1755."

Also served as "Serg't in Cap't Anthony Needham's company of 'Minute Men,' which marched from Brimfield to Cambridge, on the alarm of Apr. 19, 1775."

After careful investigation of the matter, it is believed that this Joseph did further service in the Revolution, "in Cap't Daniel Winchester's company, Col. Ruggles Woodbridge's reg't, enlisted Aug. 17, 1777—discharged Nov. 29, 1777, service 3 months, 21 days in Northern department, including 8 days (152 miles) travel home."

Some have claimed this service for Joseph (b. 1760), son of the subject of this sketch, but record of his marriage to Miss Hannah Fiske disproves this, as his marriage took place Sept. 3, 1777.

Neither could this service have been done by Joseph, son of Samuel and Abigail Munger (b. 1758), as he was serving his country in Capt. Reuben Munn's (Monson) company, at the same time and in the same department, under General Gates.

HUDSON VALLEY FAMILY.

A RECORD OF AGES.

Statement of Isaac C. Munger, Waterloo, Ia.

"My father's great grand-father's name was Samuel, and his wife's name was Sarah Dennis. Their children were as follows:—Benjamin, John, James, Lemuel, Sarah, and Hannah."

"My father's grand-father's name was John; his children were:—Dennis, Samuel, Benjamin, James, John, and William."

"My father's father's name was Samuel: his children's names were:—Millicent Sarah, James, John, Silas, Samuel, Rhoda, Benjamin, Loisa, and Elijah."

"My father's name was James: his children were:—Harriet, Minerva B., Elijah S., Meribah D., James H., Judson C., William C., Isaac C., Emily J., Sarah M., and Benjamin."

This family have no knowledge of Nicholas Munger or of the two generations following. We have various traditions as to the progenitor of this family. Descendants of Samuel and Sarah Munger have a tradition to the effect that ——— Munger, with wife and child (or children) came to this country from England, with others who settled at Boston in the Massachusetts Bay Colony. If there was but one child, that child was Samuel; if more than one, they were Samuel and Lemuel. After some years his wife died, when he returned to England, and married again. Coming again to America, he settled on a farm on land which is now a part of the city of Brooklyn, N. Y. By second wife he had Benjamin, James and John, all born "near Brooklyn." Another tradition says this man's name was Samuel, or Lemuel—is not sure which name is correct; and that he had two wives. The first wife died, when he "went over to Brooklyn" and married again. The children by first wife, being older, eventually separated from those of the second wife, and all trace of the respective families was lost to the other in later generations.

4th Gen.

When approaching old age, ——— Munger set out on horseback to visit his son, or sons, by first wife, for the purpose of dividing his property between them and the children of the second wife. While on the way was taken sick at an inn where he had stopped for the night, sent for his son, or sons, whom he had intended to visit, to whose home he was taken, where he died.

Nicholas Munger, the progenitor of most of the Mungers in America, was not of the colony that came to Boston, in the Massachusetts Bay Colony, and as claimed by some, subsequently located at Guilford, in the Connecticut Colony. He was of the Henry Whitfield plantation, who purchased land at "Menunkatuck" (later Guilford) of the "Sachem Squaw," the deed bearing date of Sept. 29, 1639, O. S.

Yet another tradition, of a somewhat broader scope, comes from a family evidently descended from Samuel and Sarah Munger, but whose line of descent we have been, as yet, unable to establish.

In the days of Martin Luther, or thereabout, Henry VIII of England offered a grant of land to seven Munger brothers of Germany, if they would emigrate to England and settle with their families on the land so granted. This offer was accepted, and these Munger families settled in England, early in the XVI century. This land was later confiscated by the English government, during religious troubles. In 1630, some descendants of these Mungers sailed for America, arriving in the fall of that year. Some of them settled in New Jersey at what is now Jersey City; others along both shores of the Hudson river, and some, no doubt, located over east."*

Although persistent efforts to find reliable records concerning him have failed, yet there seems much favorable to the idea that Samuel, son of Joseph Munger by his first wife, Sarah, is the Samuel who is said to have m. Sarah Dennis. Methodist Episcopal church records at Huntington, L. I., give the marriage of Samuel Munger and Sarah Akerly, "widow of Benjamin." Records here also show that Benjamin Akerly had previously m. Sarah Dennis, and died ——— (without issue (?)). Samuel, being the oldest son, learned the trade of his father, which was that of a cordwainer. Being stepson of a stepmother, he "left his father's house in New England" and "went over to Brooklyn" (from Guilford (?)) and married the young widow, who was no doubt, some years his senior, a condition not unusual.

The above records are largely traditional, and must be taken at that value, yet we believe them mainly correct. We are wholly indebted to the "Record of Ages" for the children of Samuel and Sarah.

TOMPSTONE RECORDS.

Found in an old cemetery on the farm formerly owned by Philip Munger of Stillwater, Saratoga Co., New York.

PHILIP MUNGER, died Dec. 6, 1809, in his 74th year.
MARY, wife of Philip Munger, died June 9, 1803, in her 64th year.
SAMUEL MUNGER, died Oct. 1, 1845, in his 85th year.
HANNAH, wife of Samuel Munger, died Jan. 20, 1840, in her 68th year.
SHELEMIAH MUNGER, died June 20, 1847, aged 23 years.
LEWIS MUNGER, died Mar. 13, 1840, aged 23 years.
DANIEL MUNGER, died Dec. 4, 1855, aged 70 years and 11 mos.

4th Gen.

ELIZABETH, wife of Daniel Munger, was born June 5, 1788; died Jan. 31, 1835.

TIMOTHY MUNGER, died Nov. 8, 1825.

NAOMI, wife of Timothy Munger, died Aug. 5, 1839.

EZRA MUNGER, died Aug. 26, 1880.

MARY B., wife of Ezra Munger, died Oct. 29, 1898.

Philip Munger bought the farm containing this burial place in 1806. As his wife, Mary, who d. in 1803, is buried here, it is presumed they occupied the place previous to purchasing it. Since the purchase of this farm in 1806, it has been continuously in the family.

We have papers to show that Philip Munger lived in Stillwater in 1782. Records show that the First Baptist church of Stillwater was organized in 1790. The books and records where it was previously were lost during the war (Revolution).

A list of names of members beginning with 1790, and continuing to and including 1835, has the names of Philip Munger, Joseph Munger, Benjamin Munger, Hatie Munger, Abigail Munger.

Another list, beginning June 15, 1816, and to 1835 inclusive, has Daniel Munger, Betsey Munger, Charity Munger Travis, Polly Place Munger, Sam Munger, Nayoma Munger, Sarah Munger Norton, Mary Munger, Hannah Munger, Timothy Munger, Lois Munger, Martha Munger, 1819: Shelmore Munger, 1835. Probably there were other children, but the above two are all that are available at this time. His residence at time of marriage is given as Salisbury, Conn., but we have found no record of him there.

"In 1817, when more than 80 years of age, accompanied his son Levi from Litchfield Co., Conn., to Oneida, N. Y., the journey being made in Feb. of that year in a sleigh, his son having made the trip from Clinton, N. Y., to Conn., for the purpose of bringing his father back with him, and to care for him during his few remaining years."

Levi Munger served in the French and Indian War, in three separate enlistments when about 20 years of age. The following is an official record of his service:

"Levi Munger, in 4th Reg't, 2d company, Lieu't Col. Ward; from Sept. 8 to Oct. 30, 1755." "Levy Mungar enl' Apr. 15, 1756." "Levy Monger enl' Sept. 15, 2d Reg't, 5th company, Capt. Harris, commanding (1756)." (Note three ways of spelling name.)

5th Gen.

"He was of a roving disposition, and as an itinerant preacher, visited many parts of New England. Though not an educated man, he was a powerful speaker, though somewhat eccentric." He was of the Baptist persuasion, and held to the "bluest" Calvinistic faith. Is described as having been of powerful build and of great strength; a famous mower and cradler, and could do the work of two or three ordinary men in that line. Many stories are told of "Uncle Cyp," as he was called. I have the following from my father: "One day he was mowing with several others, and had so far outstripped his fellows as to be almost beyond reach of the voice. One would-be joker calling to him said: 'Ho! Uncle Cyp! what you goin' to do when you get there, preach?' 'Don't look as if I'd have many to preach to,' was his response."

Recently (1909) the writer met an old gentleman at Monson who in the course of conversation told many interesting incidents of the early inhabitants of Monson and Wales, one of which concerned "Elder Cyp," as he called him. The "Elder" was in the woods engaged in getting out timber for the frame of a barn. The foreman coming up found him leaning against a recently hewn timber engaged in whittling, and asked him why he was not at work. "Nothing to do," was the laconic reply. "Well," replied the foreman, "If two men can't score fast enough for you, I'll put on another," and walked away. This old gentleman further said: "He (the Elder) would walk along the length of a log, driving his broad axe to the line at every stroke, and on the return, would 'skive' off the chips cleanly and rapidly, leaving a beautifully hewn piece of work at the finish."

The following was found among old records: "Joseph Munger, sold to his brother Samuel Jr. one mare for £360 old Continental currency" (about $1,600.00). This expensive beast was doubtless used by "Elder Cyp" on his circuit, "Preaching and exhorting."

He was a soldier of the Revolution. Archives show frequent enlistments on his part, he ceasing to enlist only because the war closed. The following is an official record of his services: "Samuel Munger, So. Brimfield, Private, Capt' Anthony Needham's company (of Minute Men) which marched Apr. 20, 1775, in response to the alarm of Apr. 19, 1775, to Cambridge. Left Cambridge Apr. 27, 1775. Service 11 days." Also: "Corporal, Capt' Aaron Charles' company, Col. Robinson's detachment of Hampshire Co. militia, muster roll dated garrison at Ticonderoga Feb. 24, 1777. Enlisted Dec. 25, 1776; enlistment to expire Mch. 25, 1777." Also: "Private Capt' Nehemiah May's company, Col. David Leonard's reg't, enlisted May 6, 1777; discharged July 8, 1777: served 72 days at Ticonderoga including 200 miles travel home. Company raised for 2 months: roll dated So. Brimfield." Also: "List of men mustered to serve in Continental Army for the term of 9 months, said Munger appears among men belonging to Capt' Gilbert's company, and other companies in Col. Convers' reg't, engaged for the town of Brookfield, mustered May 19"

Convers' regt. Age 35 years, stature 6 feet, complexion dark, residence So. Brimfield: reported well set." Also: "Private in late Capt. Caleb Keep's company, commanded by 1st Lieu't John Wright, Col. William Shepard's reg't: muster rolls for Oct. and Nov. 1778, dated Providence. Enlisted Oct. 22, 1778; enlistment for 9 months." Also: "Receipt dated Springfield, Nov., 1778, signed by Seth Bannon, Capt' Lieut' 4th Mass. regt, Muster-Master, stating he had received said Munger from Lieut' Jonas Blodget, chairman of class No. 2 of the town of So. Joseph Munger was a millwright and miller; also called a house carpenter in old records. After birth of his first child, he moved from the West Parish to Monson, where he lived, excepting the winter of 1786-7, during which he lived in the West Parish, and at which time his daughter Rebe was born. In the spring of 1783, while yet a resident of the West Parish of So. Brimfield, he bought of Daniel Munger of the same place, land lying in Monson on the east branch of the Chicopee brook, on which was a mill privilege. Here he built and operated a gristmill and a sawmill, the former standing on the north, the latter on the south side of the stream. These mills were standing as late as 1903, but have since been demolished. Aug. 23, 1786, for £16, he sold to Solomon Squier "One half of the house, Grist mill, Saw mill" and other property. Here he continued to live and conduct his milling business in connection with Squier, who it is presumed was his brother-in-law, until 1801, when he sold to "Testius (Festus?) Ellinwood, yeoman, a certain tract of land lying in Monson on the S. side of the E. Branch of the Chicopee brook," consisting of 22 or 23 acres, "Together with one half the house, Grist mill, and Saw mill." In 1804 he moved to western

5th Gen.

New York, having previously bought land in the "Holland Purchase," his holdings being in "Township 10, Range 2, in old Niagara (now Erie) county." All of his children, except Stillman and Rebe, also went West. Rebe married Charles Gardner, Esq., of the West Parish, and became the mother of Absalom Gardner, Esq., author of "Wales Centennial Address," and frequently referred to in these pages as "Gardner."

That the property in late years known as "Conant's Mill" was formerly owned by Joseph Munger is proven by a statement made by the present occupant of the place, a daughter of Mr. Conant, who says her father bought the property of Solomon Squier, but when questioned as to the name of the owner previous to the occupancy by Squier, she could not recall it. She said, however, that the family who had previously occupied the place had a daughter drowned in the mill pond. Later, at a reunion of some of the descendants of Joseph and Huldah (Squier) Munger, which was held at the old mills, this old lady again told the story of the drowning at greater length, adding: "She was sent to the pond to wash vegetables for dinner. Not returning, search was made for her, when she was found dead, having fallen forward from the bank into the water." Among the listeners to this story was an old lady, Mrs. Lucy M. Hancock,* youngest and only surviving child of Stillman Munger, who, at the conclusion of the narrative, quietly said: "My father had a sister who was drowned in the mill pond at Monson."

The site of the dwelling of Joseph Munger is shown by foundation stones, and a considerable depression in the ground, which was once the cellar. About this place are lilac bushes, over which clambers an ancient grapevine. Here also may be seen some of the old-time flowers: blush roses, Sweet William, Bouncing Bet, and other favorites of a day long past. The site of the old dwelling lies in the rear of the more recently built dwelling erected by Conant. The ell of this latter house is said to be part of the original dwelling.

Joseph Munger was a soldier of the Revolution: "Private in Capt' Nehemiah May's company. Col. David Leonard's reg't. enl. May 6, 1777, disc'd July 8, 1777, service 72 days at Ticonderoga, including travel (200 miles) home. Company raised for 2 months; rolls dated So. Brimfield." Also: "Private in Capt' Reuben Munn's company, Col. Elisha Porter's regiment, enl. Sept' 26, 1777, disch'd Oct. 18, 1777, service 30 days in Northern department including (140 miles) travel home. Company detached to join army under Gen'l Gates. Roll dated Monson." (Mass. Archives.)

Joseph Munger was Selectman of the West Parish in 1782. He was maternal grandfather of Absalom Gardner, Esq., who says of him: "Never heard him illy spoken of."

* Mrs. Lucy M. (Munger) Hancock, was at this time in her 79th year. She remembers having made a visit to Monson with her father when about 9 years of age, since which time she had not visited the old place—nearly 70 years. This circumstance was the inspiration of the following verses, which were read at the reunion.

5th Gen.

CONANT'S MILLS.

1830—1908.

I.

Back to the old home coming,
To the scenes of long ago;
Where I see the sunshine falling
On the murmuring brook below;
The rustic bridge yet spanning
The stream in its ceaseless flow;
Onward, and ever onward
As the years that come and go.

II.

I see the wild birds flitting
Among the maples near;
And their sweet song is my greeting,
As I come to the old home dear;
But no more I hear the splashing
Of the millwheel's labored whirl;
Only the clear brook glancing
In many a turn and swirl.

III.

Against the old gate dashing,
Which stems in vain its tide;
Sweeping to deeper waters
Where speckled beauties hide;
Eddying, gleaming, dancing;
Like a happy child at play,
Kissing the fringing boulders
And the grasses, along its way.

IV.

But gone is the mill and the miller,
Their life and labor is done;
Naught to do has the idle millstream
But to ripple and smile in the sun;
For no more shall the toiling millstones
Grind here the golden grain;
Here no more shall the sturdy miller,
Look out o'er these fields again.

Nothing remains of the grist mill except several of the old millstones lying about, some of which are embedded in the soil, others partly on the surface. Most of these stones are cut from solid rock, but there are two which are made of separate pieces of stone ingeniously fitted together, and bound by an iron band, "shrunk on."

More of interest is found in the remains of the old saw mill: the wheelpit and wheel, the shaft operating the log carriage, the crank and shaft which operated the old "up and down" saw, and the frame in which it was secured, the carriage on which logs were placed for sawing, and the track of hard maple on which the carriage passed to and fro, still in good preservation and yet showing, to some extent, the polish acquired by constant friction. Altogether here is a fine exhibit of the primitive methods employed in an age now passed.

"Lived in the south-east quarter of the town (now Wales) on a farm later known as the 'Burley Place.' Buildings stood in elbow made by the 'Old county road' in its connection with a short piece of cross-road, leading therefrom to the 'Old Turnpike.'" "Voted in town meeting Mar. 13, 1777, that Capt' Jehiel Munger should go and ask advice of the Jeneral Cort, concerning those persons unfriendly to the American cause."

Left So. Brimfield about 1787, later locating at Whiting, Vt., where he built a two-story house, the first in the village, size 30 by 40 feet, and having a gambrel roof. This house is still standing (1902) on the road running west from the main street of the village toward Shoreham. "Together with his son Moses, erected the first sawmill in town in 1803. It stood on a small stream the power being sufficient for its use only a small part of the year, and entirely inadequate for the wants of the inhabitants of the village. Another mill was built some distance below the first in 1812, and both were operated during the Fall and Spring until 1830, when they were abandoned because of the insufficiency of water."

Church records show that "Dea. Jehiel Munger joined the Baptist church, May 9, 1807." While in So. Brimfield had been a member of the Baptist church in that town, being one of several who "Signed off" from the "Standing Order" (Congregational) in 1756. He was deacon in the church at Whiting for many years. Church records show that his house was used frequently as a place of worship. He married third Mrs. Abigail Shepard, July 8, 1811, who died in 1812 and is buried in the old graveyard in the rear of the church at Whiting. Inscription on headstone reads: "In memory of Abigail, consort of Jehiel Munger, who died Nov. 13, 1812, in the 73d year of her age." Jehiel is also buried here. The stone that marks his grave bears the following inscription:

"In memory of Dea. Jehiel Munger, who died Aug. 3d, 1817,
in the 81st year of his age."

"Underneath this stone doth ly
As much of virtue as could die."

Although no mention is made here of his service in the Colonial wars and in the Revolution, the following records will show he gave long and faithful service to his country at that time.

"Jehiel Munger of Brimfield, name appears on list (endorsed 1756) of men belonging to Col. John Worthington's (So. Hampshire county) reg't, who had been employed in the country's service during the previous two years (1754-55) he being reported as a member of Capt' Blodgett's company."

"He also appears as having been enlisted by Capt' Tristram Davis, Feb. 23, 1760, for the campaign against Canada, his age being stated as 22 years." (Mass. Arch's.)

He was "Sergeant in Capt' Freeborn Mounton's company of Minute Men, Col. Danielson's reg't, which marched on the alarm of Apr. 19, 1775: service 20 days."

"Lieut' in Capt' Ames Walbridge's company, Col. David Brewer's (9th) reg't, (among) return of officers in camp at Roxbury recommended by Committee of Safety at Cambridge, June 12, 1775, that said officers be commissioned by Congress." In Congress June 17, 1775: "Ordered, that commissions be delivered to the several officers within named."

"Capt' in Col. Ruggles Woodbridge's reg't—pay abstracts for travel allowance from Bennington to Ticonderoga and thence home via Albany: 320 miles allowed said Munger; warrant allowed in council, Mar. 20, 1777." (Mass. Archives.)

Responded to the "Lexington Alarm." Was at Bunker Hill, the Siege of Boston, and the surrender of Burgoyne, and doubtless other engagements. A creditable record.

Jonathan Munger moved from Union to Madison Co., N. Y., near the close of the 18th century, being among the earlier settlers in the town of Fenner, locating in the north part of the town. "His farm was on Perryville hill overlooking Oneida lake." From old papers found among his effects, it is presumed he was school tax collector of Union, Conn. Among these papers were found receipted bills made out to Elizabeth Munger.* Dr. Charles Munger of Knoxboro, N. Y., says: "My father (Chauncy) was the youngest son, and I remember his saying he was about seven years of age when his father died. I think he was killed by falling from the roof of his house."

He was a soldier of the Revolution. Enlisted from So. Brimfield as corporal in Capt. Anthony Needham's company (Minute Men) which marched Apr. 20, 1775, in response to the alarm of Apr. 19, 1775, to Cambridge. Left Cambridge Apr. 27, 1775; service 11 days. Enlisted in Capt. Daniel Winchester's company, Col. Ruggles Woodbridge's regiment, engaged Aug. 17, 1777; discharged Nov. 29, 1777, service 3 months 21 days in Northern department, including 8 days (152 miles) travel home. Also served as Sergeant in Capt. Joseph Browning's company, Col. Seth Murray's regiment, engaged July 30, 1780, discharged Oct. 10, 1780, service 2 months 18 days including 7 days (140 miles) travel home. Regiment raised in Hampshire county to reinforce Continental Army for 3 months. Served in the campaign under Gen. Gates, which resulted in the defeat and surrender of the British army under Gen. Burgoyne, Oct. 17, 1777.

Gardner states that Ephraim moved from So. Brimfield to Stafford, Conn., in 1775, but the above list of children is from family Bible of Ephraim Munger. "He bought land in Union, Conn., of his father, Nathaniel, of So. Brimfield, in 1778. Lived in the northwest part of the town, where he operated a brick yard. Is said to have returned to So. Brimfield, in 1787, which statement seems sustained by family record. Two years later was again a resident of Union. Is said to have removed to Vermont, but this statement is not verified. Removed from New England to Madison Co., N. Y., near the close of the 18th century, and located near the town of Fenner. His last years were spent in the home of his oldest son, Amasa, at Milan, O.

"Served in the Revolution, in the 5th militia company, Capt. Thomas Lawson, 22d Reg't of Col. Cook." (His. Union, Conn.)

Excerpts from letter of Israel E. Munger (son of Rufus, above, 146) to his nephew, Nelson O. Munger, of Waterloo, Ia., Dec., 1906:

"My grandfather's name was Ephraim Munger. He married Joanna Fay, Mr. Israel Fay's daughter. He had three children: their names were Lucinda, Jonas, and Joanna. Joanna was my grand-mother and your great grand-mother. Your great grand-father (Ephraim.) Munger, married Lovinia (?) Robins for his second wife, but had no children by her. His first had seven or eight children. The first was David, and Ephraim, 'Liab, Rufus, Elizabeth, Amasa, Joanna, and Salmon (Solomon) and Jotham. Elizabeth married Elijah (?) Day, and her grand-son was Rufus Day, and he was Sec'y of State."

5th Gen.

"Lucinda Fay (sister of Joanna) married John Bullen, and his children lived in Wisconsin: relatives of your grandfather (Rufus). I have seen some of them, and their grand-children."

Ephraim Munger's mother was Elizabeth (Bullen) and without much doubt, was an aunt of the John Bullen here mentioned. (J. B. M.)

Solomon Munger "occupied farm originally settled by Solomon Moulton, one mile northwest of the central village (now Wales), east of and including the eastern slope of Mount Pisgah. Was an expert with the broadaxe: few could hew a stick of timber as quick and as nice as he. Claimed power to cure by laying on of hands; had much of bodily and mental vigor. First three children recorded at Stafford, Conn. Indications are that he lived in Vermont for a time at least, later moving into New York State. Pension records show he was a resident of Livingston Co., N. Y., about 1834, "77 years old." These records also state that he was a member of the "Massachusetts Continentals" (Regulars). Massachusetts Revolutionary rolls have the following concerning him: "Ichabod Munger, private, Capt' Caleb Keep's company, Col. William Shepard's reg't. Returns dated Jan. 31, 1778. Resident of So. Brimfield, Mass. Enlisted for town of So. Brimfield. Term of enlistment 8 months. Mustered by State and Continental muster masters." Doubtless other previous service, but this is all that appears on Massachusetts rolls. He was a farmer; last residence, Lavonia, Livingston Co., N. Y., where he died.

Darius Munger lived in So. Brimfield (West Parish) on what was afterwards known as the "Royal Wales Place," later occupying a house on the site of the "Miller Tavern Stand." An old record says: "He was something of an Aristocrat, never-the-less, a very fine man." In his prime he was probably the foremost man of the town. He represented the District of So. Brimfield in the Great and General Court, in 1786, '90, '94 and '95. Selectman in 1779, '80, '81, '83, '84, '85, '86, '87, '89, '90, '91, '95, '96, '97, '98, 1803, '04, '05, being chairman thirteen of these eighteen years. Town Clerk in 1787. Justice of the Peace in 1800, which office he retained for many years.

Mar. 25, 1779, was chosen with Tho's Bond to go to the General Court to effect the separation of the So. Parish from Brimfield.

July 14, 1812, was chosen delegate to Northampton in opposition to the war with Great Britain. Justice of the court of Hampshire Co., held at Northampton, at the following terms: May 17-21, 1796; Sept. 4-12, 1797; Sept. 3-11, 1798; May, 1799; Nov., 1800; Jan., 1803; Aug., 1804; Aug., 1806; Aug., 1807. Licensed as an "Innholder" at So. Brimfield in 1800.

May 4, 1795, a certain party of So. Brimfield, having been defeated in a law case, he was required to pay "£25 lawful money" said sum to be paid "in good merchantable 4 penny nails at 2 shillings pr 1000, said nails to be delivered at the house of Lieut. Darius Munger, by the 1st day of June 1796."

Served as "Corporal in Capt. Freeborn Moulton's company of Minute Men from Monson, in Col. Danielson's reg't which marched on the Alarm of Apr. 19, 1775, to Cambridge."

Both he and his wife, Abigail, are buried in the old cemetery on the hill near the So. Pond in Wales. The stone that marks his grave bears the following inscription:

"Darius Munger Esq.
died 21 Nov. 1815.
Aged 70 years."
"This stone and verse departed

While in the "West Parish" of So. Brimfield (now Wales), Mass., Daniel Munger occupied the farm originally cleared by his father, Elnathan, and which was afterwards known as "The Stebbins Place," "West of the center" of the village. He was selectman in 1787, 1793 and 1794. Foreman of the trial jury at court held at Northampton, in 1804, his residence being given as So. Brimfield. Licensed retailer at So. Brimfield in 1808. Eventually located in West Springfield (Agawam), the site of his former residence being now occupied by the dwelling of Mr. Reed, a milkman, on the "Street." Removed to Bergen, and later to Byron, N. Y., living with his son Daniel.

He was a man of strong character, having much of the Puritan about him. "He was a strong sterling Christian, without cant or hypocrisy; a deacon in the (Baptist) church for forty years; of quick temper, but strong brain, and a good talker. One little incident will show something of the man. One Gid Allen had married our grand-mother's sister, and used to abuse her. One morning grand-father called there and Allen was giving his wife 'Hail Columbia.' As soon as he saw it, he made for him, knocked him down, and dragged him from the house. This for a deacon was pretty brash, and the old man saw the situation, and took it in at once. He said: 'Gid, what will settle this?' 'Your best cow' was the response. 'Come and get her.'" The deacon had no trial.

Rev. Daniel B. Munger of Palo, Mich., writes: "Grand-father and grand-mother lived with my father at Byron, N. Y., and both died there. Grand-mother's name was Elizabeth; that is all I know; neither do I know her date of birth. She died before I was born. The two earliest recollections of my life are of my grand-father. The first is of standing by his side as he sat with the family Bible open upon his knees. How early this was I cannot say, but I must have loved him for the impression remains deep upon my memory. The second is of his death. Our people sent me to school that day—I suppose to get me out of the way, and so noon news came of his death. I cried piteously to go home, but the teacher would not let me. It made a bitter feeling against one of whom I know nothing beside; not even her name. My memory has nothing earlier than these two incidents . . . . but the spot is a bright one far back in my early life. I hold my grand-father in most sacred memory."

Elizabeth, wife of Dea. Daniel Munger, had a sister Elanor, who married Stephen Bodurtha, and they were neighbors. It was the custom of these sisters each morning to cross the intervening space between their respective homes and the rail fence which was the dividing line, and with all the formality and courtesy of "Ye olden time" produce their snuff boxes, rap upon the cover, open it and present it to the other, from which each would take a pinch of snuff. This formality ended, they would bid each other a pleasant good morning and return to their respective homes and domestic duties. This custom was followed for many years when weather conditions would permit.

Daniel Munger was a soldier of the American Revolution; the following record is from "Mass. Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolution":

"Daniel Munger, So. Brimfield: private Capt. Ames Walbridge's company, Col. David Brewer's (9th) reg't. Muster rolls dated Aug. 1, 1775—Enlisted May 16, 1775, service 2 months, 2 weeks and 6 days.—Also Capt. Walbridge's company, Col. Rufus Putnam's (late Brewer's) reg't, order for Bounty coat, or its equivalent in money, dated Roxbury Nov. 4, 1775."

A reference to the Revolutionary service of Elnathan Munger, father of Daniel, shows that father and son were in the same regiment and company, and served about the same length of time. The father, however, again enlisted and is reported to have died in the Burgoyne campaign. Both took part in the battle of Bunker Hill.

Selectman of the West Parish in 1805-'06 to '10-'12. Representative to the General Court at Boston in 1807.

Served in the Revolution; marched with a company from Framingham to Cambridge at the time of the Lexington Alarm. This company was an organization of "Minute Men," commanded by Capt. Simon Edgel. Service 14 days at Concord and Cambridge. It is probable that he left Brimfield in company with others, being unattached, and joined this company on the way.

He also served as private in Capt. Daniel Winchester's company; Col. Ruggles Woodbridge's regt. Enlisted Aug. 17, 1777; discharged Nov. 29, 1777; service 3 months 21 days, including 8 days (152 miles) travel home. Was at the surrender of the British army under Burgoyne.

Cyrus and his wife, Prudence, lie in the old burying ground on the hill in Wales.

Bille Munger was a farmer; lived in 2d Parish of West Springfield (now Agawam), Mass. In 1777, sold to Timothy Burbank of West Springfield a lot of land in that place for $400; also sold to John Fowler a lot of land lying in West Springfield on the south side of the Agawam river.

He was at the battle of Bunker Hill, and siege of Boston. "Private in Capt. Ames Walbridge's company, Col. David Brewer's reg't. Muster rolls dated Aug. 1, 1775; enlisted May 17, 1775, service 2 mo's, 2 weeks and five days. Also in Capt. Walbridge's company, Col. Rufus Putnam's (late Brewer's) reg't; order for bounty coat or its equivalent in money, dated Roxbury (Mass.) Nov 4, 1775." He served in same regiment and company as his father and brother Daniel.

From West Springfield records: "Intention of marriage of Bille Munger and Margaret Remington, both of West Springfield, was published Aug. 22d, 1778."

Nathan Munger was a millwright, miller and farmer. Lived in So. Brimfield, Mass. (West Parish), until 1782-3, when he moved to Ludlow, Mass. An old deed shows him to have been a resident of that place as late as 1790. In 1793 was a resident of "Chicopee Parish," which was at that time a part of the town of Springfield, Mass., he occupying a farm "Bounded east on Phineas Steadman's land 150 rods: northerly partly on Chicopee river, then on the mill lot and an old Grant now owned by Zenas Byers and Co. Then on mill lot to the N. W. corner to a road. Bounding westerly on a road and at the S. W. corner bounding on land belonging to the heirs of John Hitchcock (deceased) partly south and partly on a road leading to the furnaces." This farm was probably located in that part of the present city of Chicopee now known as Chicopee Falls.

Near the close of the 18th century moved to the wilderness of Oneida Co., N. Y., making the trip via the oxcart route, camping along the way; cooking, eating, and sleeping under the shelter of the trees.

5th Gen.

* "In 1801, in company with his son Nathan (who had previously 'spied out' the land), and other members of his family, went into the wilderness along Deer river in Lewis Co., locating at the 'High fall,' where they cleared land, built a small log house for temporary use; built a dam and a sawmill, and began work on a gristmill. They spent the entire season in this work, returning to Oneida Co. at the approach of winter." He later returned here and cleared land which he occupied as a farm, and where he resided for the remainder of his life. Died while yet in vigorous manhood, partly from grief at the tragic and untimely death of his son Nathan, for whom he seemed to have a deep and peculiar affection.

He was a soldier of the Revolution, serving from So. Brimfield in several enlistments. On application to the Secretary of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts the following certificate was received:

Joseph Munger moved from So. Brimfield with his family about 1781-2, locating in the town of Ludlow. For $463.00 sold to Thomas Ayers of So. Brimfield, "The farm which I lately occupied" in that town. At this time he was a resident of Ludlow. For £45 sold to Daniel Munger of So. Brimfield, land in said Brimfield in 1787. Joseph bought land in Ludlow of his father, Joseph, Sr., in 1789, both being residents of Ludlow.

"Sept. 24, 1804: voted in town meeting to pay the following accounts with money arising from the sale of Ministry and school lots: Lieut. Munger, $12.12. Jona' Burr, $14.45. John Jennings, $18.37. Aaron Colton, $12.12."

Joseph was selectman of Ludlow in 1801 and 1802. Resided at "Ludlow City," near the Granby line. It is likely that he was a goldsmith, as old records mention a "goldsmith's shop" as part of his estate. Three of his sons were of this trade. About 1805, removed to Paris, Oneida Co., N. Y.,

5th Gen.

this being his last place of residence, and where he died. He was a prominent citizen; member of the Masonic order, and buried under the ritual of that organization.

In the above old record he is called "Lieut. Munger." Doubtless he was a member of the Massachusetts militia, in the old "training days." He is buried in the cemetery at Waterville, N. Y., beside his wife. He was a soldier of the Revolution.

A copy of an old record which was among papers belonging to his son Asa states that he took part in the battle of White Plains, and was wounded in the eye at the opening of that engagement. It is also claimed that he was a "Private in Capt. Nehemiah May's company, Col. David Leonard's reg't; enlisted May 6, 1777, discharged July 8, 1777. service 72 days at Ticonderoga including (200 miles) travel home. Company raised for two months. Rolls dated So. Brimfield."

"Joseph Munger, So. Brimfield, private. Descriptive list of men raised in Hampshire Co., to serve in the Continental Army for the term of 9 months, agreeable to resolve of June 9, 1779, as returned by Noah Goodman, Supt. Capt. Winchester's company, Col. Bliss' reg't, aged 19 (also given 18) years; stature 5 ft. 4 in., hair brown (also given dark), engaged for town of So. Brimfield; also list of men returned as received of Noah Goodman, Sup't of Hampshire Co., by Justin Ely, commissioner, dated Springfield: also list of men returned as received of Justin Ely, commissioner, by Capt. James Cooper of Springfield, July 19, 1779."

There can be no mistake about this. Joseph Munger, the subject of this sketch, was b. Aug. 23, 1760, and was at this time in his 19th year. Other claims are not so well authenticated, although it is said by officials in the War Department at Washington that "The absence of any record is no proof that the person did not do the service claimed, as the Revolutionary records are notoriously deficient and incomplete."

When about 14 years old, Reuben Munger moved from the West Parish of So. Brimfield, Mass., with his father, Joseph, the family locating at Ludlow. Here he continued to live until about 1796, when, with his wife and family, and accompanied by his aged parents, he removed to the wilderness of Oneida Co., N. Y., locating in the town of Paris, being one of the early settlers at "Peck's Corners," living on the farm now owned by M. W. Terry, on Munger (later Terry) hill, where seven children were born. In 1826, went to Chautauqua Co., where he was a successful farmer the remainder of his active life.

Benjamin Munger was a farmer. "At the breaking out of the Revolution, he joined the American army, leaving his wife and children in possession of his farm near Brooklyn, with an old man, a cripple, to stay with them. When New York fell into the hands of the British, the patriot families suffered severely at the hands of the Tories or 'cow boys' as they were called. Some of these 'cow boys' came to the farm, took the horses, and with a halter hanged the old cripple almost to the death, to compel him to reveal where money was hid. This they did twice but failed each time. They then went into the house and with the same halter, whipped grand-mother Munger, until she gave up all of her money and valuables. Grand-father came home shortly after this and because of the persecutions was compelled to sell out to Tories for a trifling sum, and took his wife and children to Dutchess Co."

In 1783, bought land in Rumbout Precinct, Dutchess Co., N. Y., of John Munger of the same place. (Probably John was his brother.) He later in life removed to Fishkill, and from thence to Bloomville, Delaware Co., in company of his son, John M., in 1802.

Other records secured since writing the above are as follows:

"Benjamin Monger enlisted Apr. 26, 1758. Age 21; from Long Island; trade Cord Wainder. Volunteer Capt. Nathan Hyatt's Co.; 5 ft. 8 inches, Grey Eyes, Complexion dark." (Colonial Series; Vol. 1, p. 883.)

Earliest record of John Munger following his birth appears in a "List of the Foote Company of Militia of the Pals (Paltz), Capt. Zacharias Hoffman. year 1758, County of Orange, Province of New York."

His name also appears as private in a "Roll of his Majestie's 4th Co. of Militia in the Upper Batalion, in the County of West Chester." "Capt. John Hyatt, 1760."

Served in the Revolution from Orange Co., in the "2d Reg't of Militia" of that county; "Capt. Brown's Co., Land Bounty rights."

Old records show that he was a resident of the "Province of New York, Precinct of Goshen, in Orange Co., in 1776, on land which he bought of Aaron Forman of that place." In Mar. —, 1783, he was a resident of Rombout Precinct, Dutchess Co., N. Y. In 1791 had dealings with one Elias Van Bausschosten of Subern Town, Sussex Co., N. J., while living in Fishkill, Dutchess Co., N. Y., wherein he paid "£300 lawful money of the State of New York."

We have no further record of James Munger. It is possible that James Munger who is mentioned in the "History of Brooklyn, Penn." may be this man. The name of James Munger first appears on tax list of Brooklyn in 1818. The names of his sons are given as "John, Chrisjohn, and Tillotson."

Lemuel Munger probably had other children. Albany county Land Records show that "John Munger and his wife Nancy, and Eben Munger, of Coyemans" (N. Y.), "sold to Boltus and John Keefer, 132 acres of land for a consideration of $3100.00. Land adjoins that of Lemuel Munger."

"Lemuel Munger and wife Jemima, of Coyemans, Feb. 4, 1853, sold 51½ acres to David Mead."

It is believed that John, Eben and Lemuel Munger were children of Lemuel and Thankful. (See Abram Munger, No. 250, 6th Gen.)

Occupied lot No. 1, in the 2d hundred acre division, "east of Moses Boardman," his holding bordering on the "home lots" in the first hundred acre division. He cleared this lot, and built a house, which he occupied until his death. The above children are recorded at Middlebury. Probably had other children who were born previous to his settlement in Vermont.

Salmon Munger was a farmer. Luther, his second son, was supposed to have been stolen by Indians. He had been with his elders in the forest or field, and when they came in for dinner in response to the horn, he was sent on an errand to the "trip-hammer shop" but never returned. A search of many days and for many miles around failed to give any clew to his fate. It is said his mother was never known to smile after this event. She named her last child in memory of the little boy whose fate was never known.

"In the spring of 1797 Capt. Thomas Parmalee came from Washington, Litchfield Co., Conn., to Clinton, N. Y. Our grand-mother (Elizabeth Parmalee) was a child of less than ten years, and with his family the Capt. brought a boy eighteen years of age or more by the name of Levi Munger, who remained in his family until he sought our grandmother in marriage. The wedding took place in 1805 when they moved to Pompey, for a few years, when they returned to settle on the Western Hill-side, where five of their seven children were born. In 1840 he sold his farm, and with his son Sheldon bought jointly a farm with two houses, nearer town, perhaps for educational advantages; perhaps for social or religious. Most of the children of Levi and Elizabeth Munger married, lived and died in the town where they were born, which is something quite remarkable."

* Tombstone record at Bergen, N. Y.

5th Gen.

It is said that in 1817 Levi Munger returned to Connecticut for his father, and brought him to Oneida County and cared for him the remainder of his life.

"An aunt, daughter of Levi Munger, stated some years ago, that her father lived in New Hartford, Litchfield Co., Conn., before coming to Clinton."

An old account book, now in possession of one of the descendants of Levi and Elizabeth, states that he (Levi) was 26 years old at the time of his marriage.

SIXTH GENERATION.

"The Marcys came from Woodstock," and settled in the southeast quarter of the town, on the "Old county road." Her grave is one of several on the rugged side of Rattlesnake mountain, about one-quarter mile southeast of the "Nathaniel Munger Place." Here also are buried Nathaniel Munger and his wives, Elizabeth (Bullen) and Fear (Shaw), and other relatives. Inscription on headstone at her grave reads: "Mrss Mary, wife of James Mercy, died April 3, 1802. Aged 28 Yrs."

104. ii. Elizabeth[6] Munger (Samuel,[5] Samuel,[4] Samuel,[3] Samuel,[2] Nicholas[1]). b. West Parish, Sept. 24, 1776; d. Wales, Mass., Jan. 12, 1871, in her 95th year. Never married. In her later years was familiarly known as "Aunt Betty." Famous as a nurse throughout the countryside. While at the hotel in Wales some years ago, the writer was told by the proprietor, a Mr. Royce, who was then talking of "Aunt Betty": "Some of these old gray-headed fellows passing received their first earthly attentions at her hands."

Once only, as far as is known, did "Aunt Betty" have matrimonial prospects. She was housekeeping for a widower, and it was the general opinion that they were to be married. He was a man who loved his hounds and gun better than all else—except himself. In an impatient moment, "Betty" kicked one of the hounds who was constantly under foot, who yelped in pain and protest. Forthwith, she was unceremoniously turned from the house, never to return."

In her approaching old age she lived with a niece at Greenfield for some time, but eventually returned to Wales, where she died. Absalom Gardner, in his address delivered at the Centennial celebration at Wales, Mass., in 1862, refers to her as "An unmarried female, nearly 90 years old, being the last of the Mungers in town."

Stillman Munger was a millwright and miller, being the fourth in a direct line who are known to have followed this calling. Born in the "West Parish" (now Wales, Mass.), he removed when an infant to Monson, where his father built mills, operating both saw and gristmills. Here he lived until 1809, when he removed to "Put's Bridge" (Ludlow), operating a gristmill on the north bank of the Chicopee river, at the head of the falls of Wallamanumps.

This mill, and the house in which he lived, stood a little east of the north end of the old toll bridge, the house being a few rods north of the mill and between the river and the road going east, and opposite the old tavern. The mill disappeared many years ago, probably at the time the Jenks' began operations; but the old dwelling, a story and a half, unpainted* structure, stood until 1880 or later. It was probably demolished when the old tavern and adjoining buildings made way for the march of improvement. During his stay here, he was tollgate keeper at the old bridge;† later removing to Eaton's mill, in the southwest part of the town. Early in 1820, moved to "Stony Hill" (Wilbraham), where he remained but a short time, moving to Chicopee—then a parish of Springfield—later in the same year. Here he resumed his milling business, occupying a mill which stood near where the Gaylord shops now stand, and being at that time the only miller in town. Later in life he operated a sawmill at "Old Skip," of which mill his son Hiram was part owner, and which was situated on "Poor brook." Portions of the old dam and timbers of which the mill was constructed, were yet visible as late as the early Seventies.

Many times, while fishing on this stream when a boy, have I seen the ruins of this old mill, and listened to stories of the trout once—alas!—to be caught in the millpond.

In the years just previous to his death, he operated a gristmill near the north end of the old toll bridge at the "Falls" village, and which was located in the basement of the building now occupied by the Stevens Arms Co.'s "River Plant."

In politics, a "Whig" and Republican. "Free Soil" man and early Abolitionist. From my earliest memory, the question of Slavery and the danger of a conflict between the sections, was ever a subject of earnest discussion, when he visited my father. "There will be trouble—but it will end in the freedom of the black man." He lived to see the approaching storm, but escaped the horror of its breaking.

He was a member of the Methodist church, and for many years chorister of the old church on the hill; an early advocate of temperance, and the abolishing of the use of spirits as was then universally prevalent; a man of limited education, but a great reader, especially of his Bible, with which he showed much familiarity; of kindly and sympathetic nature; lover of peace and justice; an earnest, unpretentious Christian man, he had the respect of all who knew him; a man of whom it was said: "He takes honest toll."

Susanna, wife of Stillman Munger, was a woman of kindly instincts and quick sympathy. Possessed of native skill as a nurse, she was much in demand in seasons of emergency of any kind, and never, until age made it impossible, refused to respond to any call on her time or strength; was an adept in the curing of felons, and for years attended, free of charge, all who came to her with this painful ailment.

* Benjamin F. Burr, Esq., of Ludlow, has told the writer that he well remembers this old house, and that in his younger days it was painted red.

A story in this connection is told of one suffering with a felon, who called on her for relief. Being old and feeble she was unable to give assistance, but her daughter attempted to instruct the sufferer as to means of relief, which consisted of certain plants of the field. Asked if he knew "Skabish" (a common wayside weed), he responded: "Bedad nuim, Oi don't know t'ree persons in th' place."

After the birth of one of her first children, the cords of one of her lower limbs became contracted, rendering her a cripple for the remainder of her life. Lovingly called, and is yet spoken of as "Aunt Rebe" by those of the village who remember her.

"She was a careful, judicious, kind-hearted mother. Her children will have her motherly counsels and excellences in life-long remembrance."

It is supposed that Roswell Munger removed to the "Holland Purchase" with his father in 1804 or '05. It has been said by some that he became a Baptist minister, and lived at Batavia, N. Y. Elder Hiram Munger states in his "Life" that while visiting his brother (Alfred S.) at Niagara Falls, they "went to Batavia, to visit relatives there." Mrs. Joel Hendrick (864, 8th Gen.) in a letter to the writer says: "Aunt Orrilla, from Rome Center, Mich., and uncle Roswell's wife, aunt Ann Bethena, visited us when grand-pa and grand-ma (Stillman and Susanna) lived in 'Spunky Hollow' at the foot of the hill. This was 'Befo' the Wah' and a few years previous to grand-pa's death."

Orrilla Munger lived at Rome Center, Mich. We have no further record and those who could tell are passed away. After removal to the west, communication with her and relatives in the east gradually ceased. Postal facilities were not as now; letters sent to such a distance cost at least twenty-five cents, and the mails were irregular and inefficient. Since her visit east before the Civil War, no communication has been received. The writer has an indistinct remembrance of having seen her on this last visit.

Nathaniel Munger probably left So. Brimfield previous to the departure of his father, Capt. Jehiel Munger, from that town. No record of him is found at Whiting, other than the recorded birth of his first four children as above. Moved from Vermont to Charleston, Montgomery Co., N. Y., from thence to Lima, Livingston Co., being among the earliest settlers at that place. His name appears in a list of residents of Lima in 1796, who had chosen "ear marks" for marking "cattle, sheep, and hogs," said stock being pastured on common land, or allowed to run at large.

Probate records at Canandaigua, N. Y., show that "Bular," wife of Nathaniel Munger, took out administration papers on the estate of her late husband ————, 1798.

James Munger left his father's home at Union, Conn., about 1793, when 23 years of age, on a prospecting tour into the wilderness of Madison Co., N. Y. History of Madison County says he was accompanied by Alford (or Alpheus) Twist (Twiss (?)), and these two were the first to make permanent settlement in the town of Fenner. James settled a "little south of the center" of the town, his father, Jonathan, who came later, settling "in the north part." James was a successful farmer, living in the vicinity of the village for many years. Later in life, removed to Verona, which was his last place of residence.

The early years of Philip Munger were spent on the farm of his father, Dea. John Munger, the "Nathaniel Munger Place," bordering on the "South Meadow" in the present town of Wales.

"He attributed his conversion at 18 to the visit of some of the first Methodist preachers who visited his native town. In 1802 he was received on trial in the N. E. Conference, and subsequently received ordination as deacon and elder in regular course. His first three years in the ministry were spent on circuits in Maine; the next fourteen years of itinerant service were in Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Connecticut. In 1819, was appointed to Redfield circuit, and his itinerant work thence forward was in Maine. For thirty-three years he rendered effective service; one year he was on the supernumerary list; nine years he was superannuated."

"He purchased a farm in E. Livermore, where he retired with his family, and passed the closing years of his life. During his superannuation, he continued his labors in the vicinity of his home as his health would allow, till within a few months of his decease." It is said: "He was a physician as well as a preacher, excelling in both."

Directly following his marriage, Alvin Munger lived in Cambridge, Mass. Possibly employed in ship building at the navy yard at Charlestown, Mass., during the War of 1812-14. Was a resident of So. Brimfield, Mass. (West parish), in 1817, at which time he bought land of Jesse Munger (his uncle) of the same place, said land lying in So. Brimfield and Holland. From another old deed I have the following: "Alvin Munger, yeoman, for $378.85 sold to his brother, Elijah Munger of Exeter, Otsego Co., N. Y., land lying partly in So. Brimfield, and partly in Holland, 17th Oct. 1817, said land being part of the estate of Dea. John Munger, deceased." From records in possession of descendants of Rufus Munger, it appears he did not accompany his father to Madison Co., N. Y., but returned from Union, Conn., to So. Brimfield, where he remained with relatives until 1806, when he removed to western New York, taking up a quarter section of land just west of and near the now village of Linden, where he spent several years clearing off the forest and making improvements, enduring the hardships and privations of pioneer life. He was probably accompanied by others in his removal to the west, as many of his relatives left the West Parish about this time. He was a farmer. "A man in whom his neighbors had such confidence that difference among them were referred to him for settlement, and his judgment was accepted as final. Was of fine physique; six feet tall, erect, with a girth of 45 inches about the chest, weighing from 185 to 200 pounds. Was a man of great strength and endurance. Public spirited, he gave of his means in support of religion and education. A Baptist by faith, in politics a 'Whig' and Republican. Upright in his dealings with his fellow men. One respected for his many excellent qualities. An indulgent parent, but a disciplinarian of the old school."

State records of New York show that Rufus Munger was made Ensign in 164th regt., Genesee County militia, "vice E. Wallis, moved" (1811).

"Lydia, first child of Rufus, met her death by drowning. It was supposed to have been accidental until years after, the girl who was with her at the time, now grown to womanhood, confessed on her dying bed that she pushed Lydia from the log on which they were crossing the stream, because of Lydia's refusal to give her a comb from her hair, which she coveted."*

From 1865, made his home with his daughter, Lydia Lovina (Mrs. F. E. Nott) of Bethany.

Gaius Munger was a farmer; resident of West Springfield, Mass. (2d Parish, now Agawam), for many years. The house in which he lived is still standing. An old well is situated to the west of the house toward the rear, said to have been nearly fifty feet in depth when originally dug, and containing an abundant supply of water, "Pure, sparkling, and cold." Until quite recently this well was surrounded by the original curb, old and weather-beaten, with upright posts at each corner supporting a "hip" roof, from under the side of which was suspended an iron pulley which had replaced the original wooden one, over which passed a rope with a bucket at each end, and by which water was brought from the cool depths below. The curbing has now been removed and planks cover the opening "To keep the kids from falling in" as the eldest of the family of nine explained.

This planking having been removed, I looked into the depths and the wall of bricks was apparently as secure as when first laid many years ago. The well is yet over thirty feet in depth, notwithstanding rubbish has been thrown into it from time to time "since town water was brought into the house." It has been said to me "Oh, for one more drink from the depth of that old well!"

Gaius Munger was a supporter and one of the original members of the Baptist church in the (now) town of Agawam. "5th April 1830 Amasa Ainsworth and Hannah his wife: Gaius Munger and Abigail his wife: jointly sold to John Manley of E. Dexter Munger was a Baptist clergyman. Moved to Stafford, Conn., about 1830.

Gardner says of him: "His religious creed was darkened by the blueness of genuine Calvinism. Was inclined to intolerance toward dissenters or those esteemed heretics, but evidently always meant to act uprightly and regardfully of his allegiance to the behests of the Higher Power. Was systematical, formal, methodical, in all his doings."

Moved from New England to the vicinity of Attica, N. Y., about 1836, retiring to a farm, which was on the same country road and in the neighborhood of his brothers Riley and William.

Whitman Munger was a farmer. Occupied the farm of his father, Cyrus, in the west part of the town near the Monson line. Selectman of Wales in 1832, '33, and '38, being the last of the Mungers to hold any public office. Except in his last sickness, this farm was his lifelong home. Both he and his wife lie in the old cemetery on the hill in Wales. "Sustained a respectable moral character of prudent and economical habits; not wasteful."

Farm formerly occupied by him, now known as the "Whitman Munger Place," and is owned and occupied by Mr. Will Peck. This old house

Washington Munger was a Baptist minister; ordained at Holland, Mass., in 1832; in Stafford, Conn., in 1839; from thence to Tolland, Windham Co., Conn., where he remained until 1850, when he removed to Mystic, Conn., and later to Waterford, where he died. Gardner says of him: "Not frivolous or inclined to gabbling; sedate, contemplative, studious. Was esteemed as possessor of moral merit. After adult age taught school winters, and worked on a farm for hire. Not an eloquent man; but of good sense, great candor, fair pulpit talents, and one who in true Christian spirit, could tolerate in others, opinions differing from his own. A man of natural priestly bearing."

Nathan Munger "was an energetic pioneer." Moved from the West Parish of So. Brimfield, Mass., with his father, about 1782-3, the family locating in Ludlow, Mass. When about thirteen years of age, was by the action of the Selectmen of Ludlow, "Allowed to spend his money by himself." Remained in Ludlow about eight years, when the family moved to Chicopee Parish, then a part of the town of Springfield, locating in the portion which is now Chicopee Falls. Near the close of the 18th century the family emigrated to the wilderness of Oneida Co., N. Y.

In the spring of 1800 located a farm at the "Ash Swamp" in Lewis Co., on both sides of the Deer river, to secure a mill privilege.

The proprietors, to encourage the enterprise, gave him the bed of the river from the falls, two miles up the stream. The following spring (1801), accompanied by his father, who was a millwright; Calvin Blodget and Shadrack Case, carpenters; his oldest brother Isaac and his sister Betsy (wife of Blodget), who were to perform the domestic duties; he returned to the Deer river. Clearing a space they built a log house in which to live; built a dam and a sawmill; and began the foundation for a grist-mill, returning to Oneida Co. in the fall. In the spring of 1802, married and took his wedding trip in a lumber wagon to Lowville, ten miles from his log cabin in the wilderness. Here he sold his horses and wagon, bought a yoke of oxen and a cart, loaded in his little effects and his bride, and resumed his journey into the wilderness, following the blazed trees that marked the way. At the close of day they reached a trapper's cabin, where they passed the night, the presence of wolves and the gathering darkness making it unsafe to travel further, although they were but a short distance from their new home. Continuing their journey in the morning they soon reached their destination, and began life in the wilderness with wild beasts and Indians for neighbors. His father coming here soon after, they completed the gristmill, and these mills "sawed the first board and ground the first grist in the town of Denmark." Other families settled in the vicinity of the mills, and the settlement soon became known as "Munger's Mills," and was so called for many years.

Nathan and his bride, Aurelia, were the first to make permanent settlement at "the old ash swamp," now the village of Copenhagen; their daughter Emily was the first white child born there.

He later built a larger house, which was the first frame building erected in town. This building served as an inn, and furnished entertainment for man and beast. At the house warming his Indian friends asked, and were granted permission to hold a war dance, which was one of the features of the occasion. He donated land for a burial place, and was one of the first buried there. Met his death while raising the frame of a house. Was at his door with one of his children when he was called to assist in putting a heavy timber into place; lost his footing and fell, the timber also falling, crushing him under its weight.

A daughter of Nathan, now (1897) in her 89th year, and to whom the writer is indebted for most of the facts in the above narrative, says of her mother: "She was of sturdy New England stock; her father, a soldier of the Revolution. Hearty and cheerful, she took pioneer life by the foretop; learned to shoot in defense against wild beasts. At the age of thirty, was left a widow with six small children."

Betsy (Munger) Blodgett was the first white woman to visit the present site of the village of Copenhagen, Lewis Co., N. Y. With her husband, her father and two brothers, Nathan and Isaac, and a neighbor, she went into the wilderness of Deer river in the spring of 1801. The season was passed in clearing land, building a dam and sawmill, and in other improvements, the company returning to Oneida County in the fall. The Blodgetts later returned to this place and made their home here.

On the way to Deer river in 1801, Mrs. Betsy (Munger) Blodgett is said to have borrowed a "rising" of dough from a man at whose cabin her company had passed the night. Arriving at their destination she "set" her dough, using the borrowed "rising" and from this dough she made the first loaves of bread ever baked in the village of Copenhagen.

Roland Rich married three of the daughters of Calvin and Betsy Blodgett. At the time of his marriage to Lucy Ann, last remaining unmarried daughter, he was jocosely told by her father that he could have no more of his family—"unless he took Betsy."

"Eleazer Nash, husband of Polly (Munger) Nash, was in Government employ as a shipbuilder at Sacket's Harbor, during the War of 1812. In the spring of that year, fell from a vessel on which he was at work, and was dangerously injured. On receiving news of her husband's condition she saddled the family horse, and with a lunch and her six-months' old infant, rode to Sacket's Harbor, a distance of twenty-two miles, arriving there a little after dark.

"Here she remained and cared for him until he died. He was buried at the place of his death, after which, with a sorrowful and aching heart, she selected what few of her husband's effects she cared to preserve, then

Sylvester Munger went with his father from the Chicopee Parish (now Chicopee) to the Wilderness of Oneida Co., N. Y., when a boy; the family later locating at "Munger's Mills," in Lewis Co. Came from Lewis County to West Springfield, "Whipping the cat."* Worked at his trade of "cord-wainer" in "Back street" for Dea. Caleb Hume'on, in West Springfield (now Holyoke). Made the first pair of pegged shoes in this section of Massachusetts. When the Deacon saw these shoes, he declared they were good for nothing; that the soles would fall off. "Your best yoke (of oxen) can't pull them off" was the characteristic reply. Later, when one of the deacon's best customers came for his usual supply of footwear for winter use, he was prevailed upon, somewhat against his will, to try pegged boots. After one trial, pegged work was good enough for him. Before marriage, lived in So. Hadley, but after this event, took up his residence in West Springfield, occupying land where the Merrick Thread Mills now stand. In 1845, moved to the Homestead at "Baptist Village." Carried on farming on land the greater part of which is now included in the city of Holyoke, Mass. This farm also included the locally famous "Ashley Pond," known to all followers of Isaac Walton. The homestead is now (1905) occupied by his son and daughter, George H. and Maria, who have lived here continuously for more than fifty years. (Maria d. Nov. —, 1912.)

* "Whipping the cat": making a journey on foot, from farm to farm; from village to village; making or repairing footwear, harnesses and other work of like nature as occasion offered.

Mary Jane, daughter of Sylvester, died at the old homestead Jan. 23, 1890; her sister Grace also died at the old homestead, Mar. 24, 1896.

In "History of the Connecticut Valley," town of Holyoke, appears a map showing location of homes of early residents of that town. Among them is that of Sylvester; an error in engraving, however, makes the name read "Manger."

Elijah Munger was a carpenter and farmer, living on the homestead farm near the village of Copenhagen, in Lewis Co., N. Y. Was one of the early settlers in this county, coming with his father, Nathan, from Massachusetts, at the close of the 18th century. Military records of Lewis Co., State of New York, show that Elijah Munger was Capt. in Col. Luke Winchel's regt., 1808.

In the War of 1812-14, Anthony Munger was in Government employ as ship carpenter, at Sackett's Harbor. Later, in hotel business at Oswego, N. Y. Was a man of fine presence; tall and erect, bluff, hearty and outspoken; a good story teller, and a great joker; an ideal hotel man of "ye olden times."

She was twice a widow; her first husband was Thomas W. Green. Abner Munger was wont to say that the years of this marriage were the happiest of his life. She was b. May 12, 1824; d. Copenhagen, N. Y., Apr. 16, 1889. Judging from all accounts, she was a very fine woman.

Abner Munger was a merchant. Acquired sufficient property to live at his ease in his declining years. Was generous with his means, helping those less fortunate than himself. "A temperate man, highly respected; member of the Methodist church."

Two daughters of his second wife, familiarly known to relatives as "Aunt Hat" and "Aunt Lib," married the brothers Davenport, who "kept tavern" at the foot of the hill in Copenhagen. A daughter of his wife, Olive J., now resides at Springfield, Mass. It has been the writer's pleasure to meet this lady, who evidently places a very high estimate on the character of "Father Munger."

Abner Munger was connected with the State Militia, receiving the following appointment to that body from Gov. DeWitt Clinton:

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK.
TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME.

Know Ye—That pursuant to the Constitution and Laws of our said State: We have appointed and constituted and by these Presents Do appoint and constitute ABNER MUNGER Adjutant of the 101 Regiment of Infantry of our said State (with rank from Aug. 23d, 1827). To hold the said office in the manner specified in and by our Constitution and Laws.

In testimony whereof We have caused our Seal for Military Commissions to be hereunto affixed: Witness DeWitt Clinton Esquire, Governor of our said State, General and Commander-in-Chief of all the Militia, and Admiral of the Navy of the same, at our City of Albany, the 7th day of September in the year of our Lord, one thousand, eight hundred and twenty seven.

Passed the Adjutant's Office:

At the time of his marriage, Asa Munger was a resident of Ludlow, Mass., where he continued to live until about 1804 or '05, when he removed to the State of New York, probably accompanying his father, who left Ludlow about this time. Located at Herkimer, where he lived for a number of years, eventually locating at Auburn, where he resided for the remainder of his life. He was a silversmith, watch- and clockmaker. Mr. Charles L. Capen of Bloomington, Ill., grandson of Asa Munger, writes: "I have a hall clock made by my grandfather, Asa Munger, in Herkimer, N. Y., in 1817. It is ingeniously made; shows days of the week and month; phases of the moon; and plays a tune every three hours; a different one each day. On Sunday it plays 'China.' It is a genuine 'grandfather's clock.'"

WILL OF STEPHEN MUNGER.

"In the name of God, amen—I, Stephen Munger, of Conneaut Township, Erie Co. Penn, farmer; being weak in body but of sound mind, memory and understanding, praised be God for the same, do make this my last will and testament in manner and form following: 1st;

"I give and bequeath unto my dear wife Lucinda Munger, the use and occupation of my farm on which we now live and situated in Conneaut Township; also the house-hold furniture and two cows, and the right to get firewood from another lot or piece of land (which I give and bequeath to my son DonCarlos Munger) during her natural life.

"I give and bequeath unto my son DonCarlos Munger, a piece of land and twenty five acres or there-a-bout, situated in Conneaut Township, it being part of Tract 518 (Five hundred and eighteen) deeded by Michael Jackson to Don Alonzo Jackson, and by him deeded to Stephen Munger. Also one span of horses, wagon and harness.

"The farming tools and implements, grain, hay, hogs or pork and vegetables now on the premises are to remain for the use and mutual benefit of the above named Lucinda Munger and Don Carlos Munger, and as touching all the rest, residue, and remainder of my estate real and personal of what kind or nature what-so-ever the same be in the county of Erie aforesaid or elsewhere, I give and devise unto my five children, George D. Munger, Franklin Joseph Munger, Olive I. Norton, and Mary H. Jackson, and to their heirs forever to be equally divided among them. Helen M. Ely Fuller Munger probably accompanied his father to Oneida county, sometime subsequent to the death of his mother, who died in 1805. He afterwards owned and occupied a farm bordering on Hanover Green, in the then town of Paris. He was prominent in Hanover society matters. He later removed to Albion, N. Y., where he died while yet a young man.

Benjamin Munger was a sailor, and as captain and owner of a vessel, followed the sea for many years. He accumulated considerable wealth, and was considered quite wealthy for a time. Retiring from the sea, he lived in New York City until he lost a large portion of his property by fire, when he removed to the Provinces. He later came to Ontario, in company of other colonists: the Proudfoots; Jarvises, and Merrigolds, about 1808. Was Magistrate for Peel County for many years. While in Canada, he was a farmer, living at Brompton, Streetsville and Fergus.

This man and his descendants spell the name Monger. I have a letter written by a granddaughter of this man, in which she says: "My grandfather Benjamin while living in New York, spelled his name Munger, but on removal to the Provinces changed the spelling to Monger, for no known cause." The change is not warranted, as his father (John, No. 64, 5th Gen.) and his brothers, and all earlier generations spelled the name Mu.
